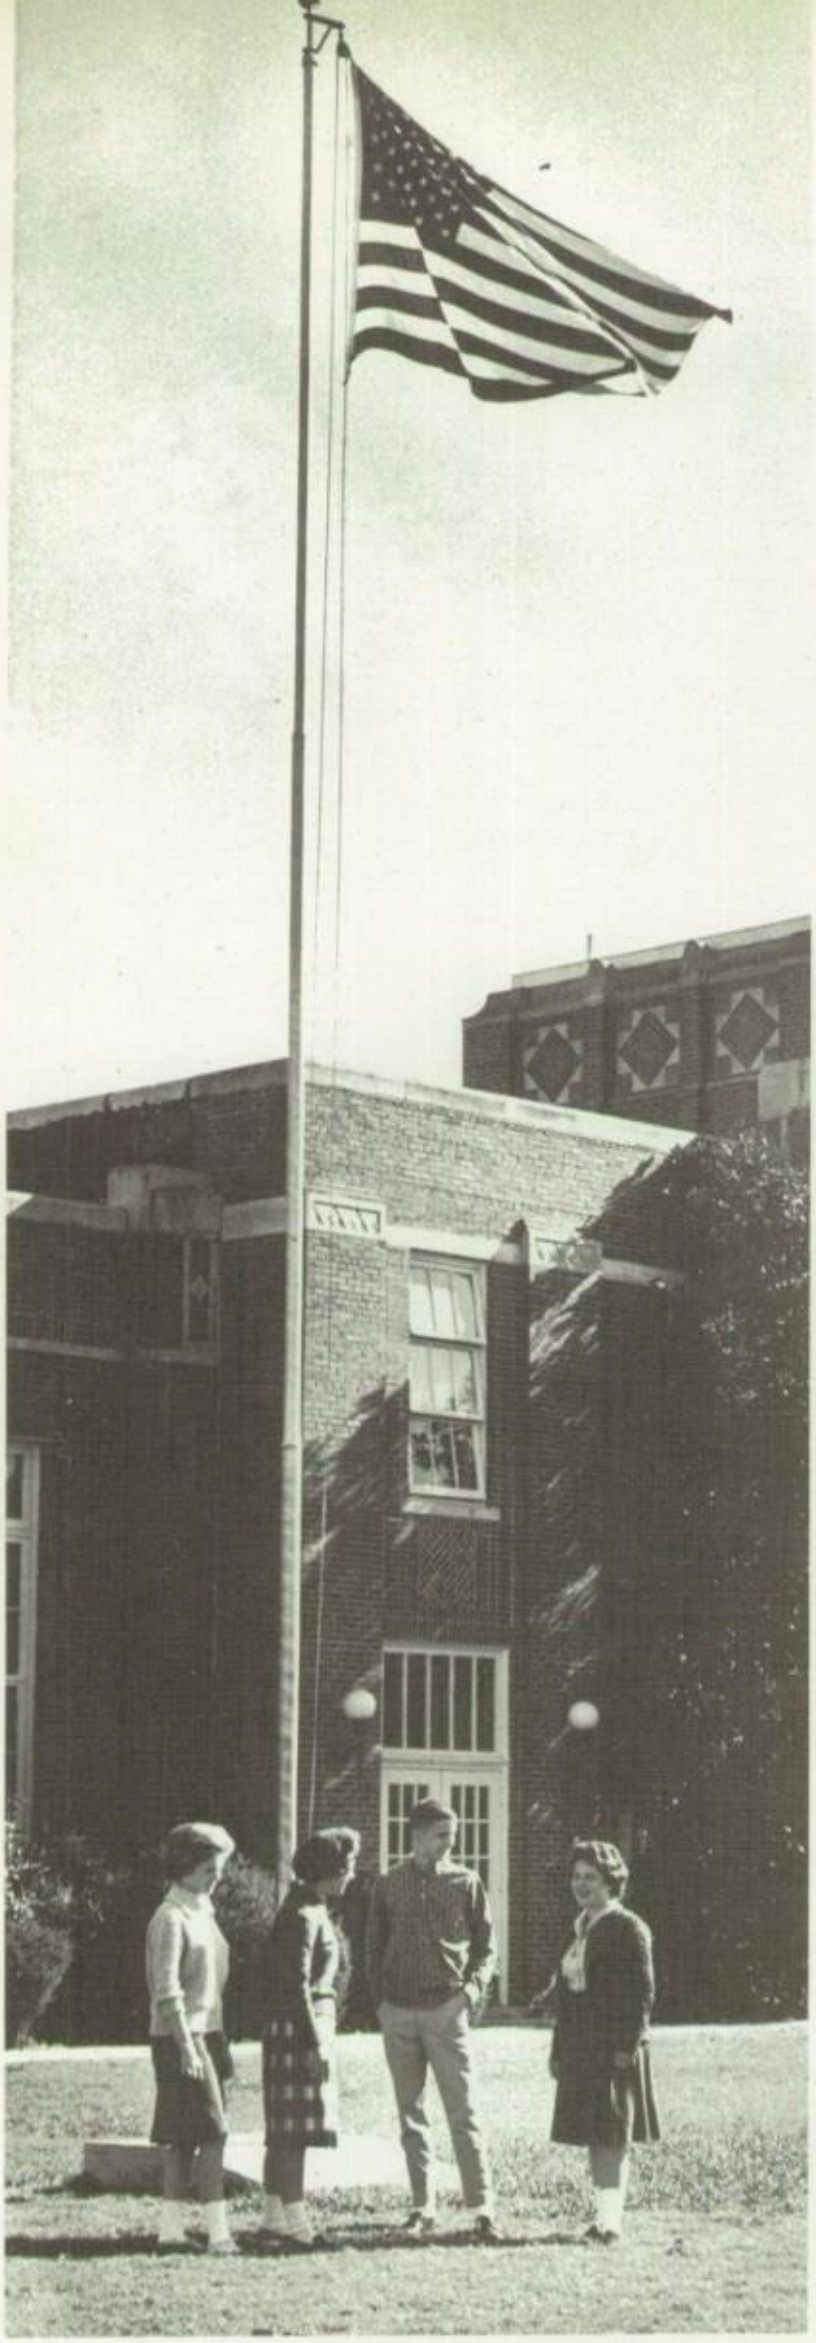
The Bruin 1963

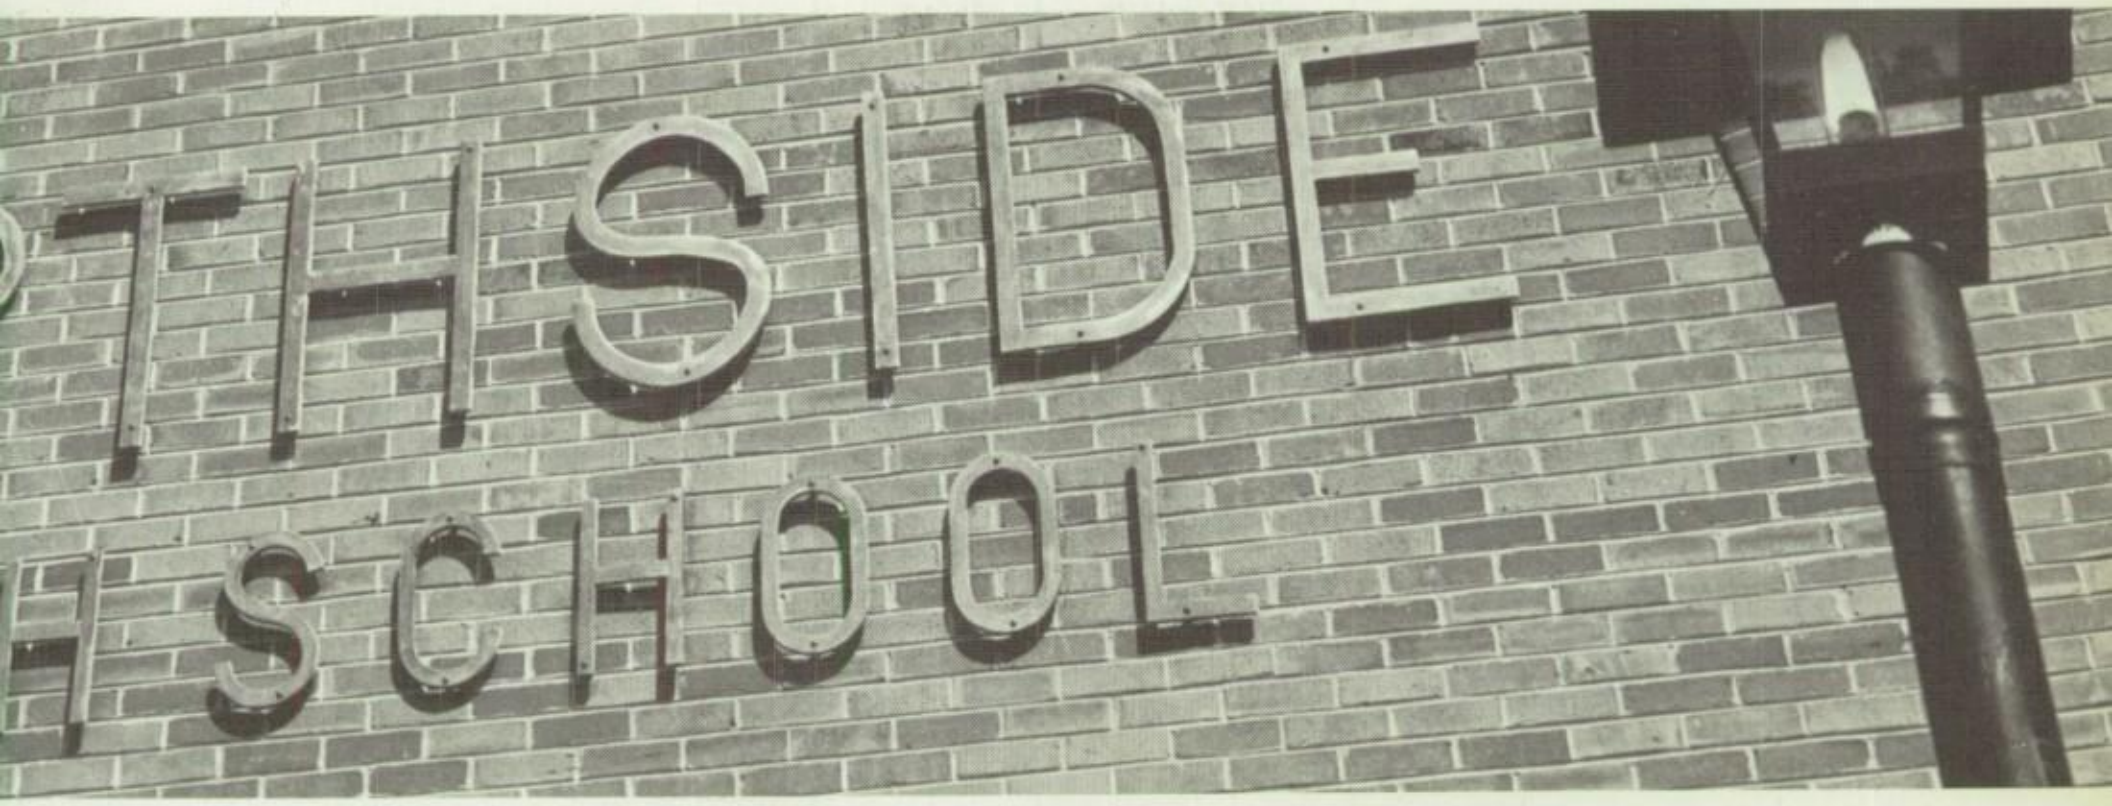
Northside High School Fort Smith, Arkansas Volume 39



Old Glory proudly flies over the front campus. Students here are Peggy Scholze, Penni Holt, Don Barksdale and Pat Tays.

Foreword

"Bigger," groaned the administration. "Better," pledged the student body vice-president. The statistics were obvious—2,300 students broke every local enrollment record and made the title of biggest in the state unquestionable. New factors in the grand total were the Peabody annex, 16 teachers and 1,250 sophomores and transfers who faced a tight schedule with resignation—and grace—and helped make the sum a right answer for a huge educational program. While the city's second high school is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1963, for one last glorious year the opinion was unanimous: Northside High was biggest ever, and best yet. This, your Bruin, is dedicated to that year—your year.



Northside's new name, official last year, dominates the front campus since the gift of the class of '62 was installed on a rainy September day.

ALMA MATER

All hail to our Northside High,
Carry on with your majesty.
All hail to our Northside High;
Good will with us night and day.
Through years of loyalty
In our hearts you shall never die.
Oh! Alma Mater, in our prayers,
Northside Senior High.

Regular meetings of the board of education are open to the public. Members of the board hearing a financial report being given by Mr. Hixson (business manager, standing) are Mr. Shaw, Mr. Stone, Mr. Corbin (superintendent of schools), Mr. Yantis, Miss Ballman, Dr. Paul and Dr. Hawkins.

Board of education directs course of city's

public school system

Public education is constantly in the spotlight in every community. Establishing and appraising the educational activities of the school is the responsibility of the board of education.

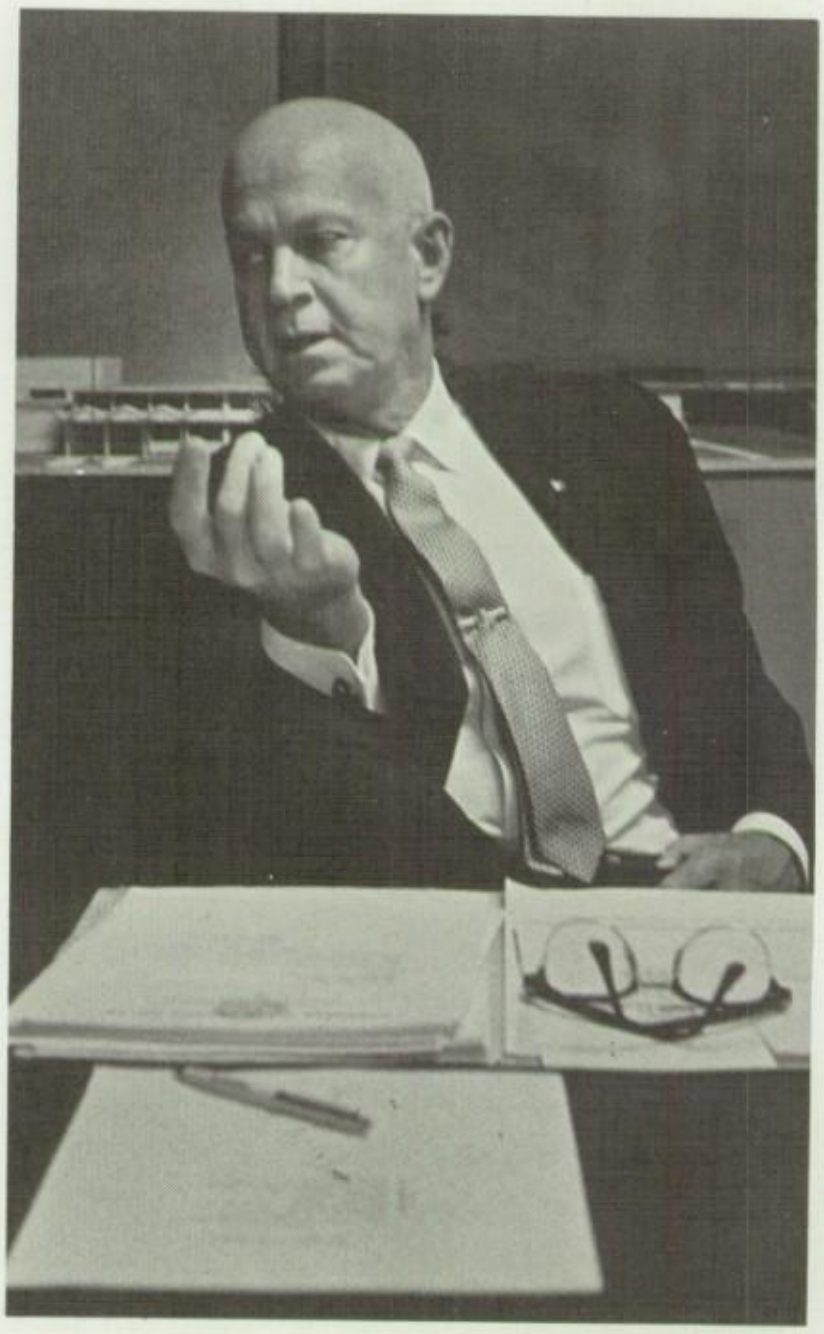
Recommending a new bond issue, the board is continuing with an extensive building program to meet the growing demands on local educational facilities. To add to the facilities for high school students, the Peabody annex became a part of Northside in 1962-1963, and the completion of a new junior-senior high school is scheduled for the fall of 1963.

Plans for a $2,500,000 building program for the schools draw an interested audience at board meetings, held monthly at the administration building.

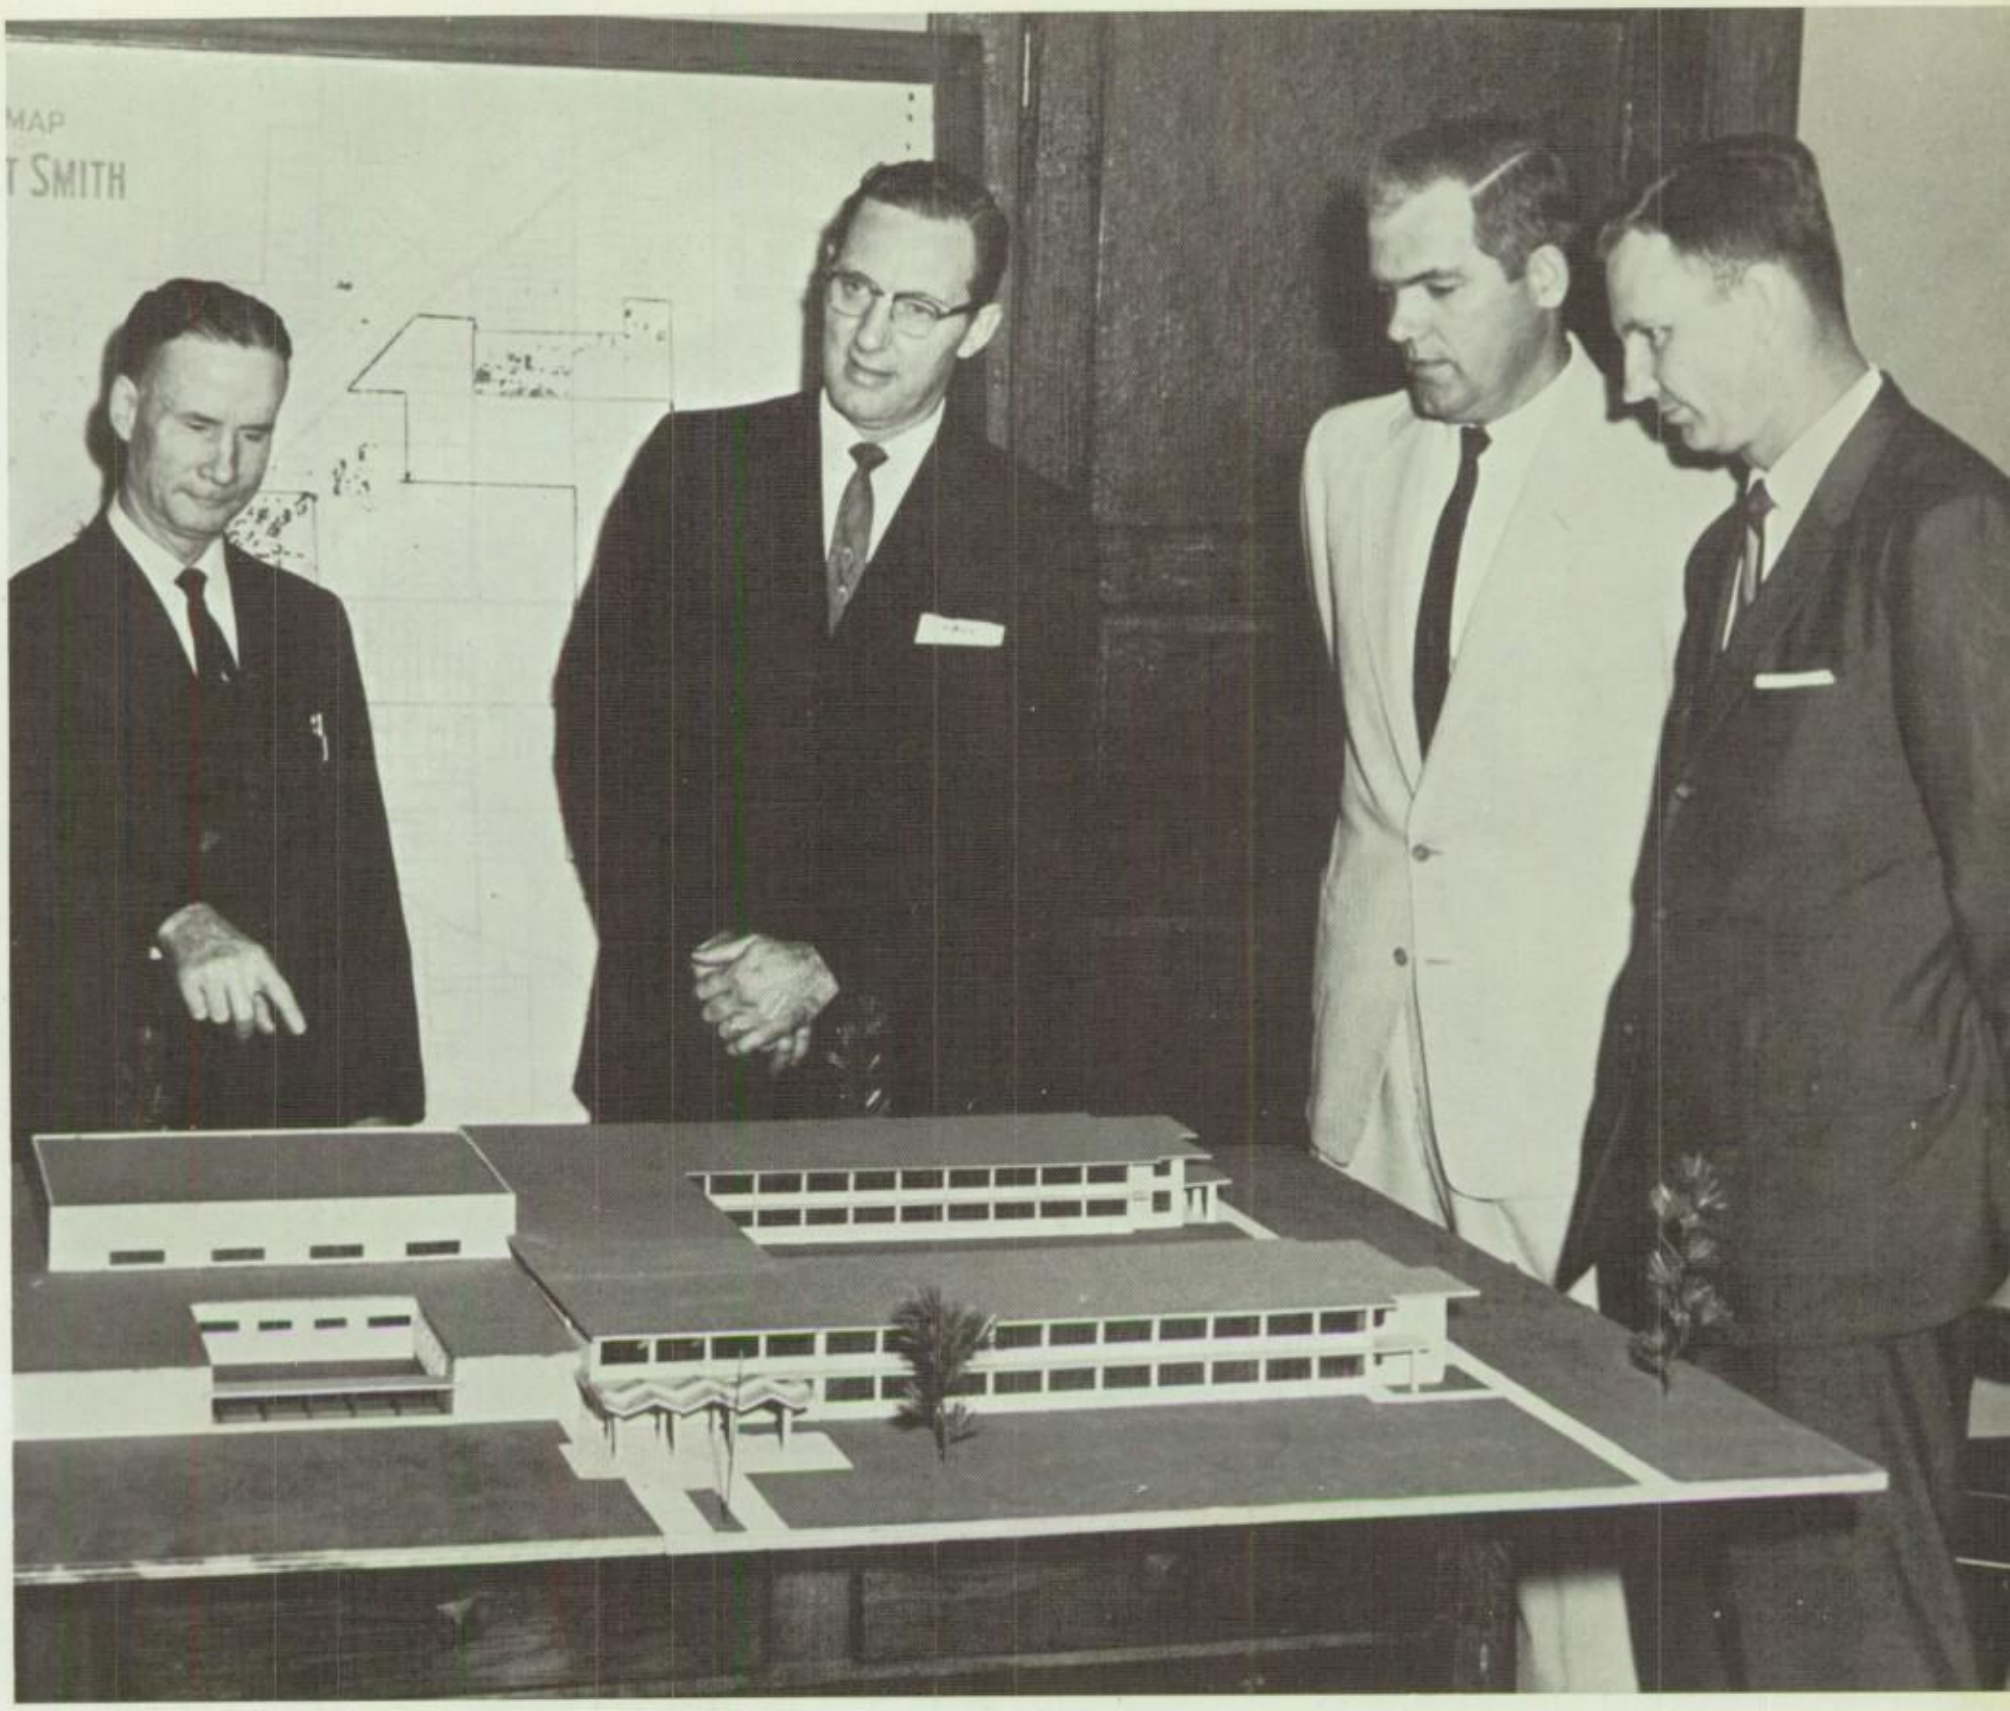
Numerous duties fill superintendent's day

One of the busiest persons in the Fort Smith school system is the superintendent of schools. In this capacity, Chris D. Corbin acts as the chief executive of the school board.

Since his main duty is to administer the development and maintenance of a good educational program designed to meet the needs of the community, he is often seen at Northside. Among the more colorful programs in which he participates is the coronation ceremony of Grizzly homecoming.



Chris D. Corbin, superintendent, spends many hours in his office, his duties ranging from receiving visitors to holding conferences.



The new school is a subject of continuing interest. Administrators discussing the model are Mr. Hixson, Mr. Riley, Mr. Gordey, and Mr. Patterson.

Administrative offices important to N H S

In the organization of the school district, there are two offices of importance to Northside. The curriculum and business matters are taken care of in these offices.

Ralph B. Riley, director of instruction, is responsible for coordinating the curriculum development of the school system. The instruction supervisors work with the director to make every improvement possible. New to the administrative staff this year is Calvin Patterson, supervisor of secondary instruction. Mr. Patterson is concerned with studying and recommending equipment and curriculum changes which will make better schools.

Guy Hixson, business manager, handles the business affairs of the school district. Duties included in his job range from supervising tuition matters to serving as payroll officer. William E. Gordey, accountant, is also connected with the financial matters of the school system.

Mr. Farnsworth is at his desk sometimes—or around the building

Principal's responsibility: to meet needs of all

Situated between the top-level force of the general administrative offices in the public school system and the massive machinery of the high school in action, the office of the principal is a vital and endlessly busy place.

Northside's principal is R. Earl Farnsworth, who is affectionately known to most Northside students and NHS alumni as "Skipper." With the increased enrollment spilling over to the Peabody annex during the 1962-1963 year, Mr. Farnsworth is faced with the double responsibility of more students and increased classroom area. Northside is the largest high school in the state, and the principal's duties run the gamut from high official duties to daily devotionals and care of the roses in Farnsworth Gardens.

Mr. Farnsworth takes on the responsibility of keeping the school spirit high. He attends all games, pep rallies and other school functions.

He summarizes his duties as "keeping abreast of national secondary school trends and providing a staff, materials, program and atmosphere that as nearly as possible meet the needs of every student."

and sometimes he is looking after the roses in Farnsworth Gardens. A number of classes and clubs have contributed roses for the garden this year.

Tardy slip, please. This line confronting the dean includes Freddie Lane, Mark Plunkett, Bill Spicer, Jay King, Curtis Wallace and Danny House.

Among various duties, Mr. Stewart consults by telephone with many parents.

Dean's main problem: preventing problems

"My problem is preventing problems," says Victor E. Stewart, who doubles as NHS assistant principal and dean of boys. Among his major duties are the locating of absent students each day and providing of disciplinary guidance for delinquent students.

In addition to his everyday duties, Mr. Stewart serves as co-ordinator of all audio-visual materials. In this capacity, he has the job of ordering any film, graph or charts that teachers request, and handles the showing of films, use of record players and any other of the audio-visual equipment.

Northside's skyrocketing enrollment has brought many new difficulties, such as the inconvenience of the Peabody annex, but although the daily routine jobs—including an average of 30 tardy slips and 50 telephone calls—can be tiresome, Mr. Stewart says he enjoys his work.

When asked what he feels is most rewarding about his job, his answer is, "When I feel that I have impressed upon a student the importance of going to school and getting an education."

Mrs. Lemley, the new dean, works hard to help girls solve their problems.

Never a dull moment for new dean of girls

The dean of girls in the largest high school in Arkansas has a busy day every day, as can be seen by the long line of students outside her door each period. In addition to the innumerable and varied regular duties of a dean, including admittance cards, tardy slips and countless telephone calls, she also has the responsibility of having the morning announcements collected and printed before the second period each day. As an added task she is in charge of the "green room," a lounge for girls who are ill at school.

One of her duties, that of aiding new students with their schedules, has kept her especially busy because of the increased enrollment. Also, she holds numerous conferences with parents when girls are having difficulties at school. But besides these duties, she is likely to be asked at any time for various kinds of help, from providing a paper clip to giving advice on personal problems.

New to the position this year, Mrs. Katherine Lemley succeeds Mrs. Hilliard Kirby, formerly Miss Opal Horn. Mrs. Lemley, who was previously with the English department, says, "There is never a dull moment."

This trio, Carol Mendelsohn, Sherry Files and Marcia Gilliland, reflect the crowd that usually gathers in Mrs. Lemley's busy office.

Bob Meek drops into the guidance office for a chat with Miss Taylor concerning college and scholarship opportunities.

Guidance Counselors Offer Many Kinds of help

The program of guidance counseling in Northside was increased in 1962-1963 to cope with the record enrollment.

In the guidance office, Miss Faye Marie Taylor, guidance director, provides current information on local job opportunities to terminal students and makes available details about many specific schools and lists of scholarships to those planning to attend college.

Senior counselor Miss Margaret Stewart, in a special new division of the program, checks each senior's transcript to make sure that credits and grade points are sufficient for graduation.

Phillip Lewis, general guidance counsellor, has the special responsibility of bringing the aspects and advantages of guidance counseling to the sophomore class.

All scholastic tests, such as SCAT, PSAT and ACT and College Board Exams, are carried out through the guidance office. This department also provides personal vocational testing, extensive the goal of helping students succeed in their chosen cumulative records and private counseling on personal as well as scholastic difficulties, toward fields.

Becky Wikstrom checks her grade average with Miss Stewart.

Sophomore Mark Plunkett consults Mr. Lewis about scores on standardized tests.

Messenger Linda Winters receives a note from Mrs. Cretnik, in charge of Northside's general office at the Peabody annex.

Glenda Nelson and Mrs. Womble go over two of the hundrels of transcripts and permanent records kept on file in the registrar's office at Northside.

Offices handle business, records, schedules

Janie Shane, Kitty Carson, John Barnett, Doris Kraus and Mike Bell carry on routine duties as Mrs. Hoel checks the Peabody attendance for the day.

Countless duties are carried on in the main offices, center of business in Northside. Mrs. Clarence Hoel and the student office workers are responsible for keeping attendance records, answering the telephone and sending messages. Their days are also filled with ordering supplies, handling correspondence and assisting the principal and deans.

In the registrar's office, Mrs. Anna Lee Womble files students' schedules and permanent records. She also makes transcripts when students request them.

All fees, dues and other money matters are sent to the business office, where Mrs. Nora Speer serves as bookkeeper and Mrs. Dan Patterson as cashier. Mrs. Rutha Poe, clerk in the athletic department, supervises ticket sales and makes arrangements for athletic trips and officials for games.

Mrs. Ewell Lee, secretary in the guidance office, is in charge of keeping the student personal guidance records up to date. "Our man at Peabody," Mrs. Leo Cretnik, keeps the office at the Peabody annex, a new office necessitated by increased enrollment.

Telling jokes? No, Jean Ann Bridges, assistant to the guidance secretary, and Mrs. Lee are working with student files.

Ever wonder where all those dues, fees and profits go? Here they are in the business office where Mrs. Speer counts, records and banks it for you.

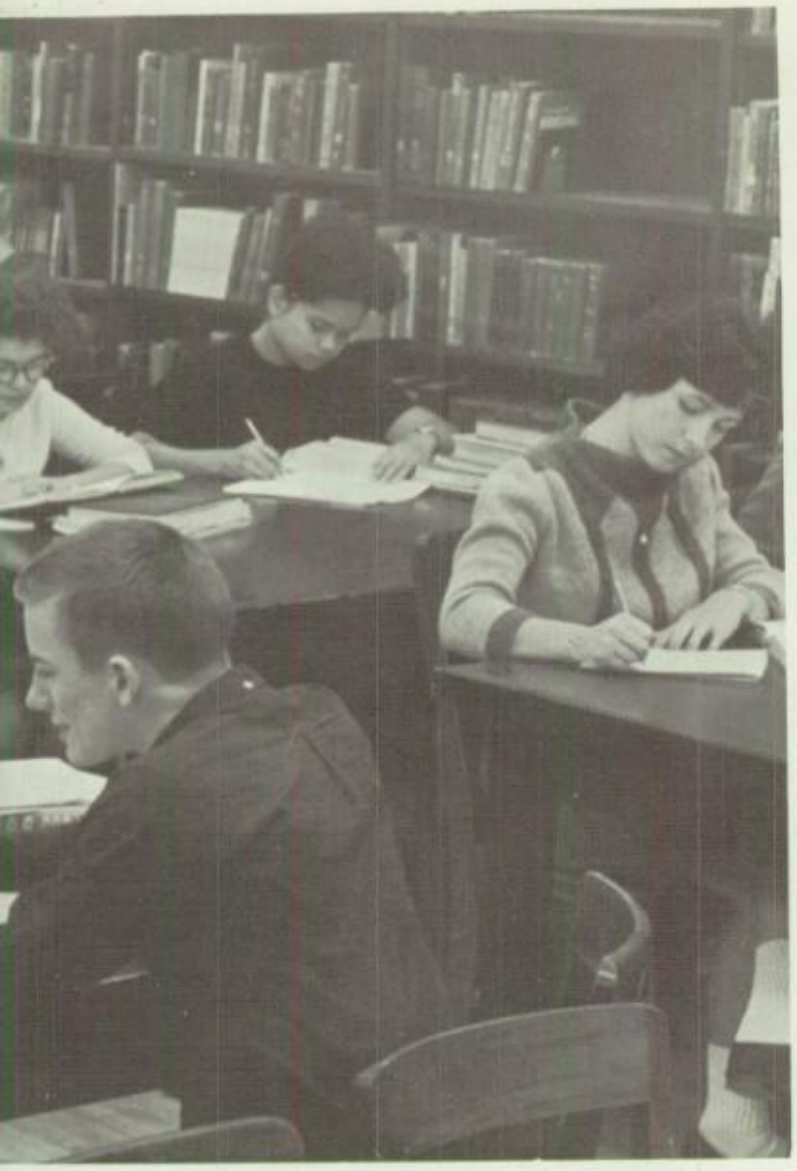
Mrs. Patterson presides at the cash register as Kay Morton, Carol Karsten, Sharon Gingrich, Cille Donoho and Mary Alice Graves go through the cafeteria line.

Without Mrs. Poe, Fred Bowman would never go to any athletic events because she wouldn't be there to sell him his ticket!

Under the efficient direction of Miss Blackman and Mrs. Robinson and with the help of student assistants, the library is a quiet place for study. Here Joanne Lee, Marsha Leavitt, Linda Jean and Bobby Meek (sitting at the first table) are diligently preparing term papers for their English classes.

Variety of courses available to Northsiders

After the final bell rings at 3:15, students don a big smile and hurriedly march out of the school doors—carrying their books for the night's study.



3 diplomas offered

In 12 departments, covering social sciences, exact sciences, vocational and business training, physical education, language arts and fine arts, 78 courses are available to Northside students, with 81 instructors on the staff. Sixty courses are offered to seniors, 53 to juniors, 36 to sophomores.

To receive a college preparatory diploma, one must maintain a grade average of at least 2.00 and have 18 units of high school work. Students with a 1.5 average and 17 units may choose either an academic or general diploma. For less than a 1.5 average, only a certificate of promotion is granted.

The NHS library again played an important part in the academic program. This year a new room for periodicals was furnished. A current project in the library is a closed circuit television program to help students who are doing research papers become more familiar with library facilities.

Seniors Marilyne Brown and Flo Rainwater, making full use of NHS library resources, are hunting references to prepare a bibliography.

Social Studies courses cover wide range

Social Studies Department--Miss Margaret Stewart, B.A., M.A., American History, Guidance Counselor; D. O. Smith, B.S.E., L.L.B., Arkansas History, Arkansas Government; Mrs. Mary Julia Head, B.A., American History.

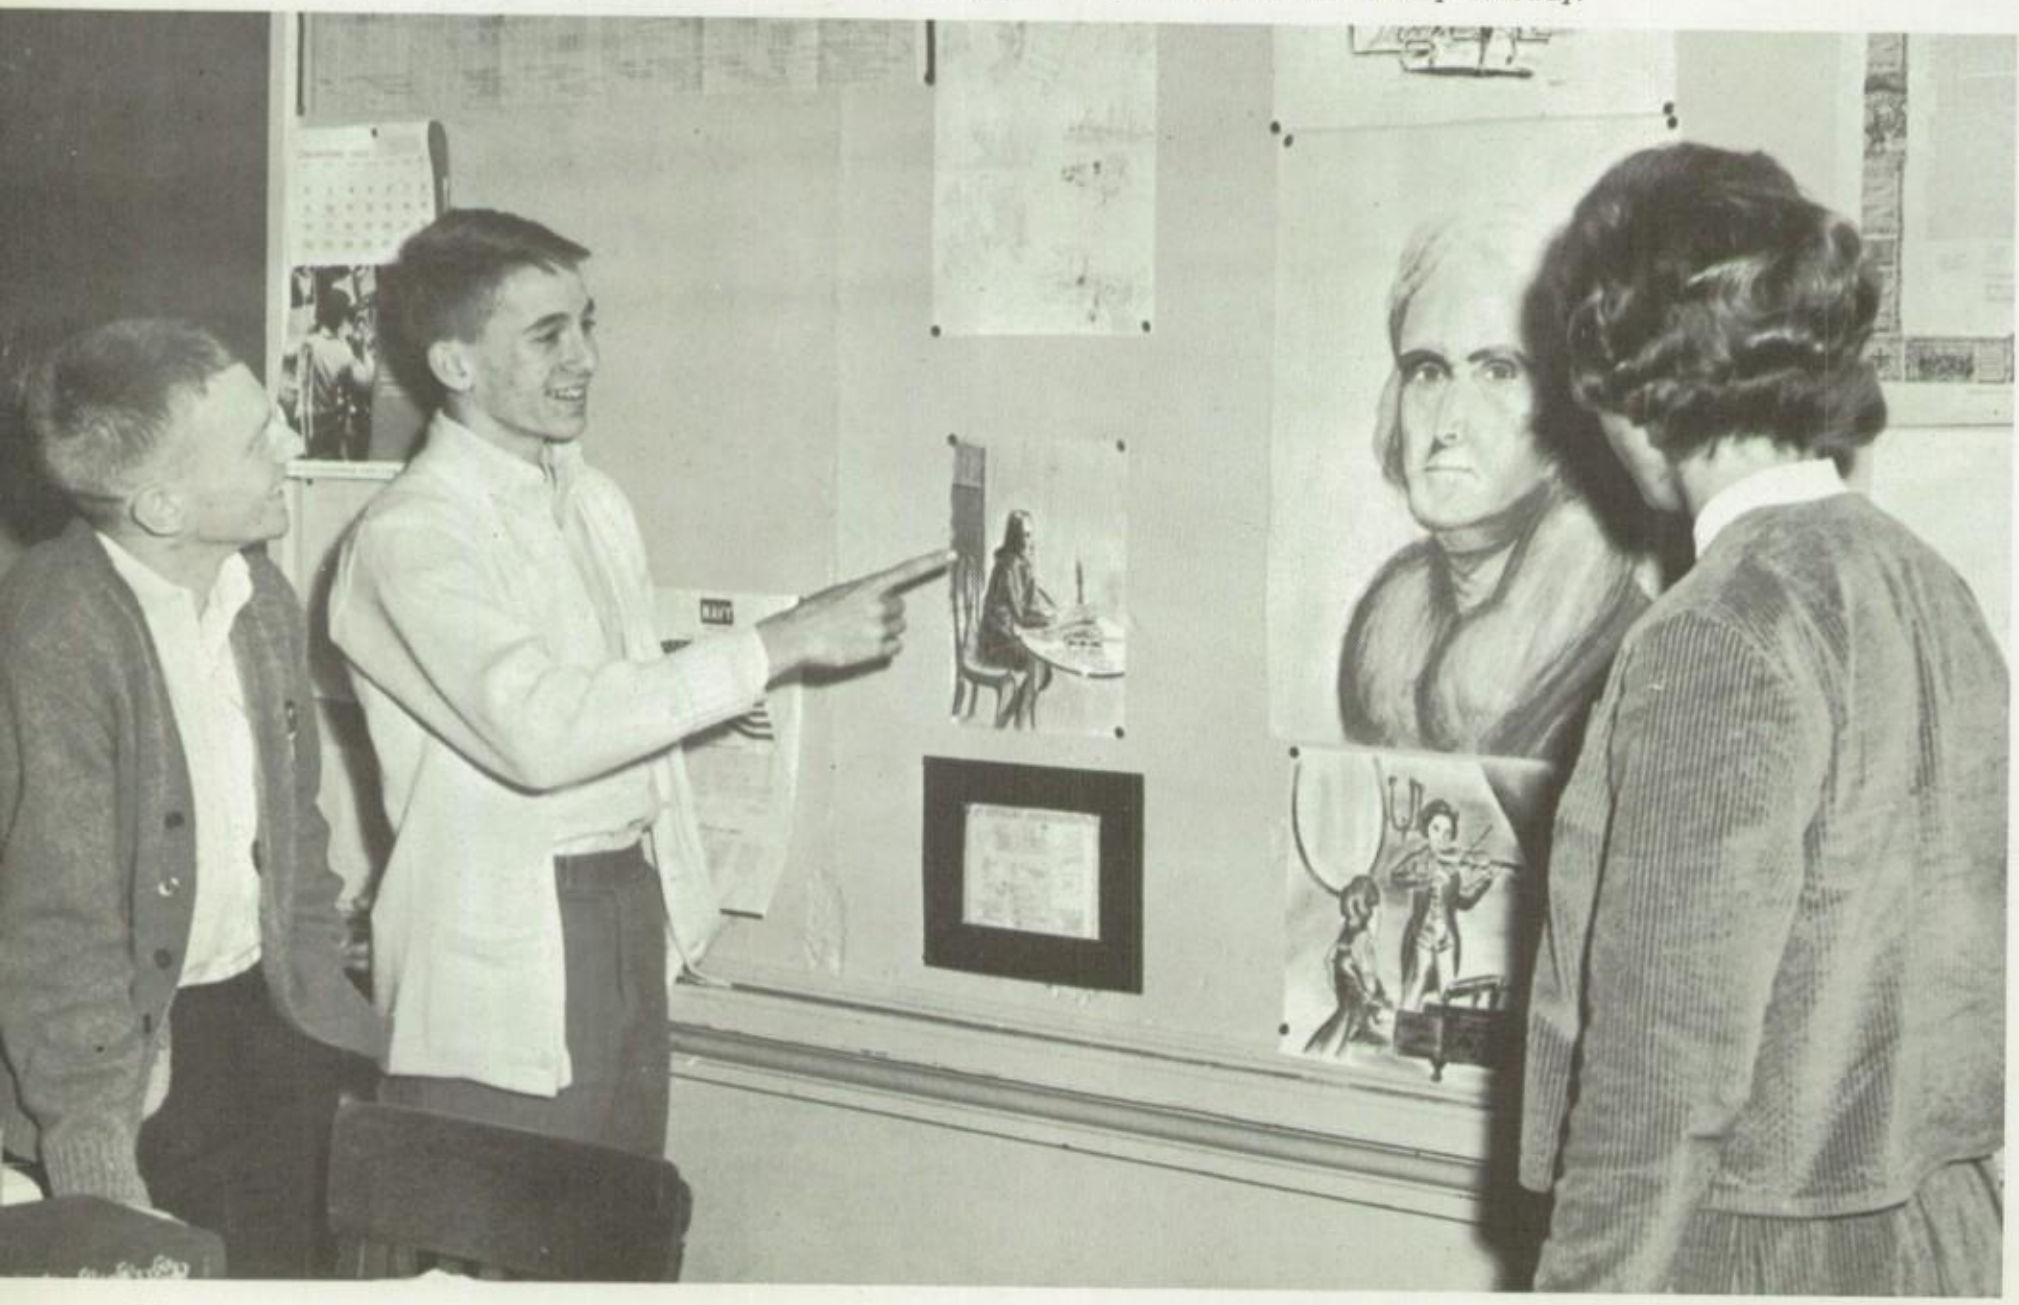
"These are the times that try men's souls" reflects the feelings of historians and history students alike.

Each student who graduates from Northside must have completed three units of social studies. One unit of American history is required for every high school student. A unit of ninth grade civics is required of local students before entering the tenth grade. This helps satisfy the requirement of three units. An exception to the regulation is made for those pupils who have completed three units of science.

The choice of the third subject is left to the student, who may choose from world geography, world history, Arkansas government and history, American government, economics and family relations.

Junior English and American history were correlated this year.

Student-drawn illustrations of historical people and events show the relation of American history and American literature of the same era. Kingsley Bost points out drawings done in the correlated English-history classes to Charles Howard and Sherry Holloway.



Social Studies Department--Panel: Larry Loux, B.S.E., American Government, Arkansas History, Arkansas Government, sponsor: Junior Council; Mrs. George Miller, B.A., Family Relations, English V-VIC; Clyde D. Scott, M.A., World History; Mrs. I. F. Jones, B.S.E., World History; Dan Skelton, B.S.E., World History, English I-II. First row below: Miss Irene Barnwell, B.A., M.A., American History, sponsor: Future Teachers of America; George McAlister, B.A., World History, Economics, sponsor: Student Council, co-sponsor: Hi-Y. Second row: Mrs. Arthur Cox, B.S., World History; Herman Cook, B.S., M.S.M., World History. Third row: Mrs. Truman Boatright, M.S. Ed., American History; Miss Madge Evans, B.S.E., American History.

In world history one engineering achievement studied is the Aswân dam. Here Mark Atkinson shows his reproduction of the dam to Nancy Willis and Jimmy Neugent.

Math department emphasizes independent

Bob Gilbert and David Hachtmeyer hang geometric figures in a math classroom to give it a "suitable mathematical atmosphere."

The mathematics department is one of the most versatile in NHS. Recently it has added to its program SMSG mathematics, featuring the modern approach. This new mathematics includes the material traditionally taught, but the presentation and is entirely new, because of the increasing influence of mathematics.

Mathematics is a living and evergrowing subject, according to Mrs. Paul Sidler, and not simply the summation of some gifts of antiquity. This fusion of the old and new in SMSG is designed to lead the students to a better understanding of the basic concepts and structure of mathematics and provide a firmer foundation for understanding and using mathematics in a scientific society.

Other courses offered here include Algebra I-II, Algebra III-IV, Geometry, Intermediate Math, Math V-VI and Advanced Arithmetic in all grades.

The mathematics department participates in the annual math contest sponsored by the Mathematics Association of America and Society of Actuaries.

Don Law operates one of the new Vu-Graphs which are now being employed in NHS mathematics classes to display material.

Various phases of advanced math prepare students for the more difficult college math. Here Tom Corbin explains a complex problem to Donna Hall.

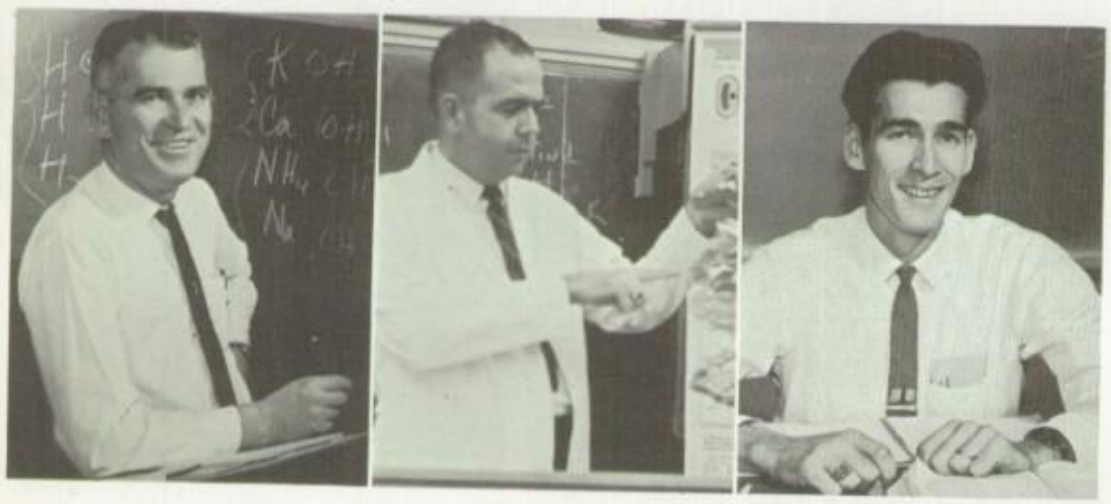
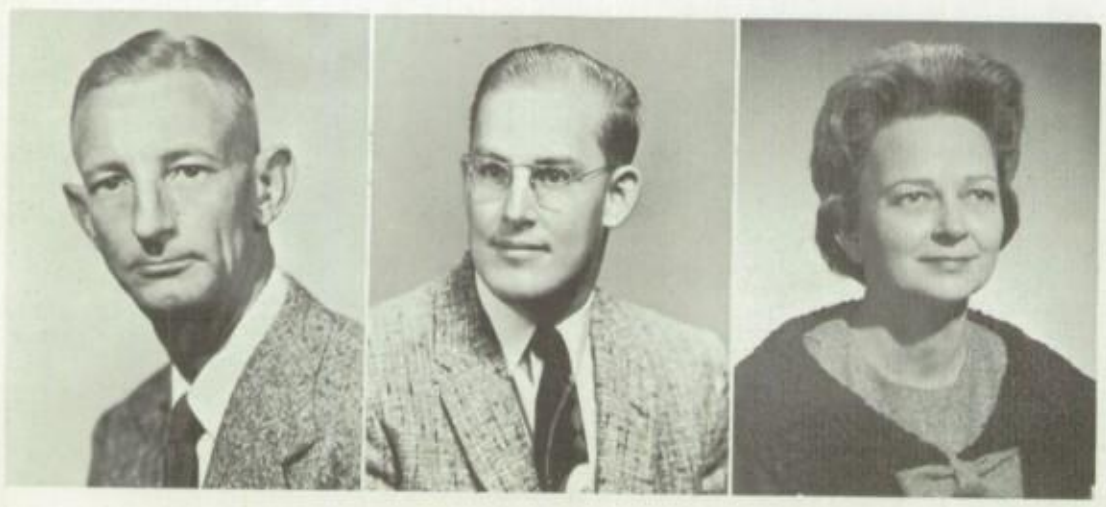
Science is popular with student body

Making drawings of special features is part of biology. "Artists" here are David Speer, James Scott and Sue Anderson.

Unusual rock specimens, examined here by Donnie Joyce and Sheila Collins, are subjects of study in general science classes.





Science Department--First row: Clifton Grace, B.S., M.S., Chemistry, sponsor: Science Club; James William Colvard, B.S., M.S., Biology, Physiology, Special Investigations, co-sponsor: Pep Squad; Joe H. Mr. Colvard shows a reconstructed skeleton, made by Marilynda Green, to Herman Elkins, Libby Thuerk and Butch Edwards.

No one's blown up the building yet and no one has been dissected yet, even though over half the NHS student body has been enrolled in the science department during 1962-1963. Courses range from general science to the special investigations for students interested in certain areas.

"A study of science gives a person an above average appreciation of the world in which he lives," says Franklin Blair, instructor. "It provides an above average earning capacity and may act as a deterrent against the spread of communism so we may continue to preserve our way of life. It is our opinion that the primary reason we continue to enjoy the benefits of a democracy is because we are still ahead of the communist world in sciences, and they know it."

Physics students, Butch Page, Elaine England and Steve Plunkett, try to prove the mechanical advantages of the inclined plane.

In Chemistry lab Bud Rounds and Jerry Thetford test acids and bases.

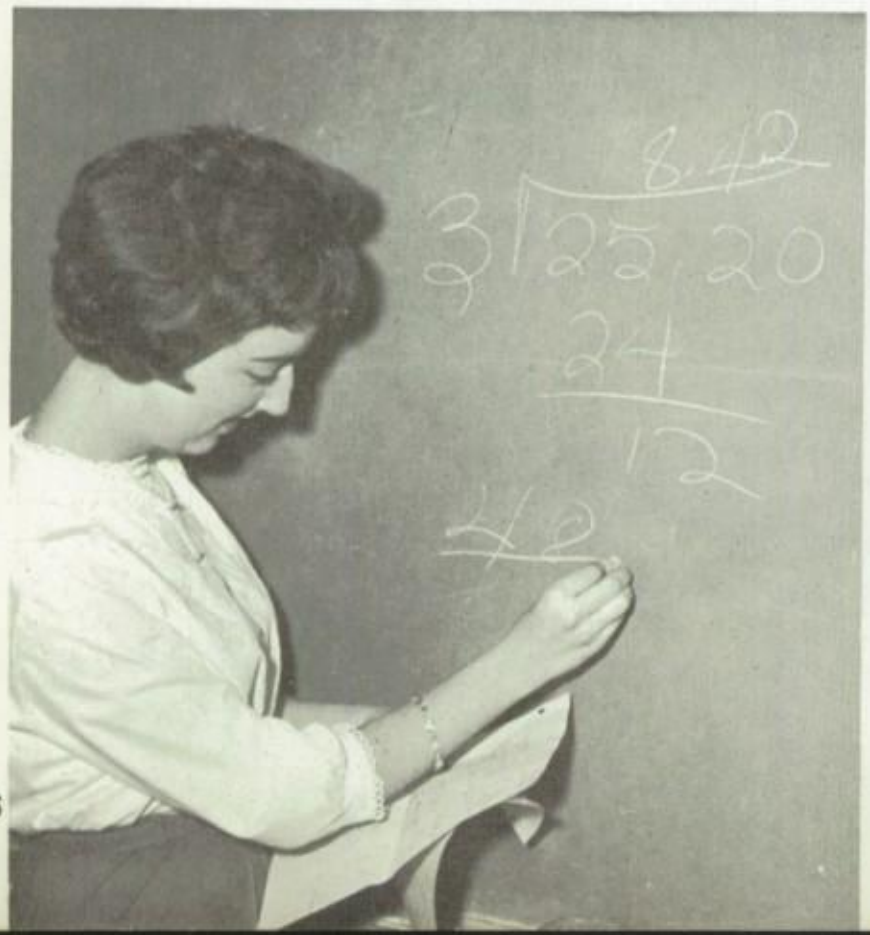
Northsiders plan business careers

Louise Capps practices her daily assignment in typing.

With the clicking of typewriter keys and the zipping of carriages, the typewriter courses are in full swing. Along with these, the business education department also includes shorthand, notehand, business arithmetic and business English. A range of operational skills, from duplicator to calculator, makes up that part of the department called office machines.

In the business education department, the academically talented students, who will be the strength of tomorrow's economy, not only learn the fundamentals of the business subjects but also learn to understand the economic values necessary in government, business and social affairs.

Donna Peak, here doing routine classwork on the board, is one of the many Northside students enrolled in business arithmetic.



Iralene Ennis, Gayla Miller, Donna Holliday and Carol Nelson concentrate on their assignments as they work in office machines.

Business Education Department—First row: Mrs. Polly Clark, B.A., M.S., Shorthand, Notehand; Mrs. Guy McCarty, B.S.E., Typewriting; Mrs. G. O. Bicknell, B.S., Business English, Business Math. Second row: Miss Juanita Hinkle, B.S., M.S.E., Office Machines, Shorthand I-II; Miss Marie Thweatt, B.S., M.S., Business Math, Typewriting. Third row: Mrs. F. L. An important part of second-year general accounting is demonstrated here as Larry Bennett and Gail Hurst begin working on their ledger sheet.

Dena Gann dictates to Kaye King in shorthand class.

Preparing for a business career, Verna Yearta operates office machines.

Mary Margaret Fry, Ollie Cunningham, Carolyn Pryor and Nancy Hill shape loaves of homemade bread in their foods class.

Northside girls enrolled in cooking learn to use kitchen equipment. Here Jo Cameron examines a newly arrived set of bowls in class.

Classes in cooking, sewing and managing a home are taught in the home economics department for girls who want to learn the principles and skills needed for making an attractive home.

In the home management course girls learn how to budget time and money, market, select and care for household furniture and appliances, plan and serve meals, entertain, choose colors for decorating, and take care of people of all ages. Basic information in home nursing, safety and first aid is included in the course.

Two courses in food preparation offer the girls an opportunity to learn about the composition, care, cooking and preserving of foods, the essential needs in menu planning and food customs.

Clothing classes have studies of textiles, colors, dress designs, sewing equipment, problems of fitting, decorative finishes and repairs for garments. Girls learn to choose clothing for themselves either to make or to buy.

Home economics program: learn by doing

These young homemakers of the future who are learning some of the different phases of home management enjoy a lesson in sewing. Industrious, seamstresses include Gloria Perry, Donna Wagner, Janis Nicholson, Margean Halloway, Pat Ferriss and Virginia Petersen.

In homemanagement classes Sharon Casey and Vicki Sigler, above, work on their project of refinishing furniture. Left: Carol Nelson, Martha Bicknell and Jeanie Caldwell put the finishing touches on their Christmas gifts.

Mr. Smith explains the individual income tax return sheet to several boys enrolled in diversified occupations.

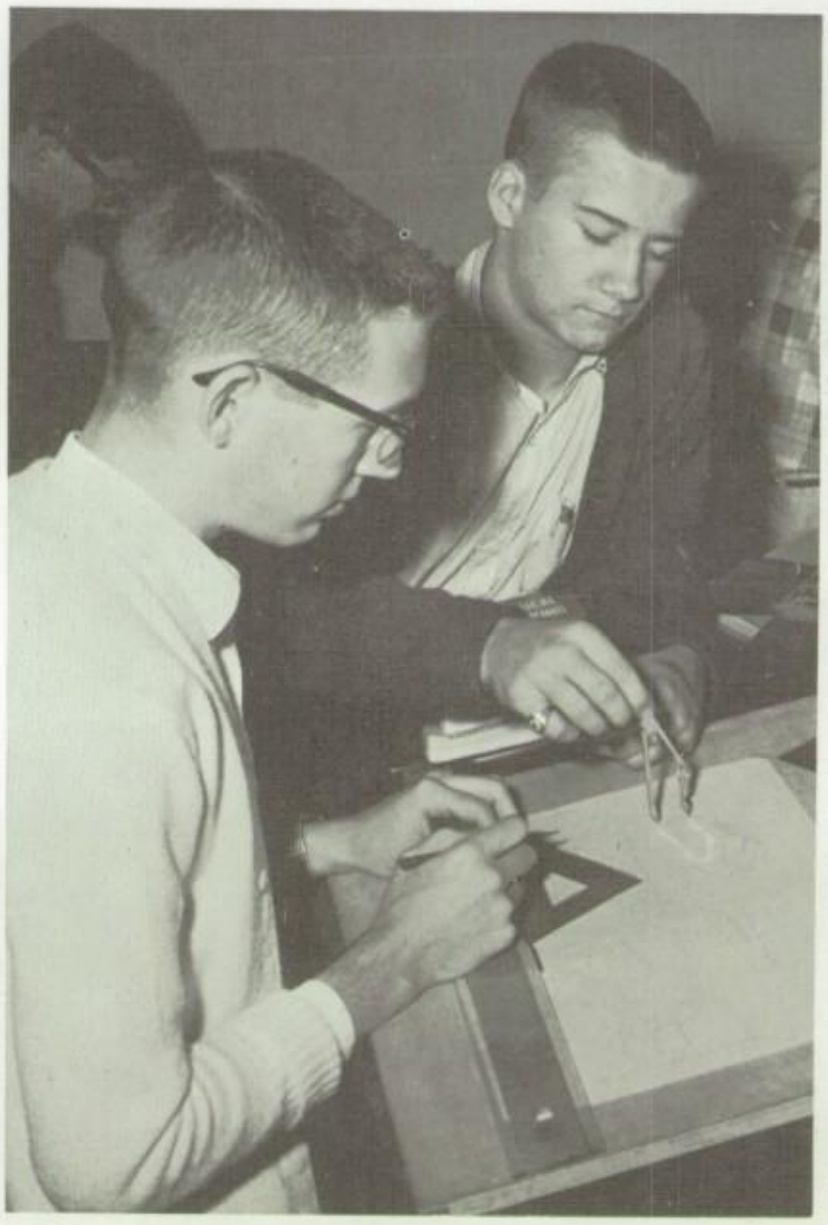
Paul Toon learns to operate a lathe during a class in metal working.

Vocational and industrial courses give Northsiders an opportunity to learn many important skills.

In the print shop, boys learn while doing the printing of the forms, pamphlets and publications required in the operation of the school system, as well as all school publications.

Woodworking offers the use of tools in various kinds of cabinet-making. Operation of drill presses, machine lathes and platen presswork are among the skills taught in metalwork. In architectural drawing, students draw sets of plans and write specifications. In diversified occupations students are able to work half a day while attending class half a day.

Robert Hinton and Jerry Arnold work together on a boat.



Kenneth Summar and Steve Carnes practice some of the primary drills on perspectives in a class in architectural drawing.

Setting the press for basketball schedules is only part of the job handed to trade printers, here Terry Felder and Pat Mulhern.

Boys learn special vocational skills

Industrial Arts Department--Lower panel: William Harmon, B.S., M.S., Woodworking I-II a&b, III-IV; Ronnie Ashley, B.S., Printing I-II, III-IV; Jerry Klinginsmith, B.S., M.S., Vocational Printing, Director of the Grizzly Press; James Neely, B.S., Drafting I-II, III-IV, Architectural Drawing I-II. During the winter months the thud of the volleyball is heard when the classes divide into teams to play one of their favorite sports.

Girls, boys have physical education

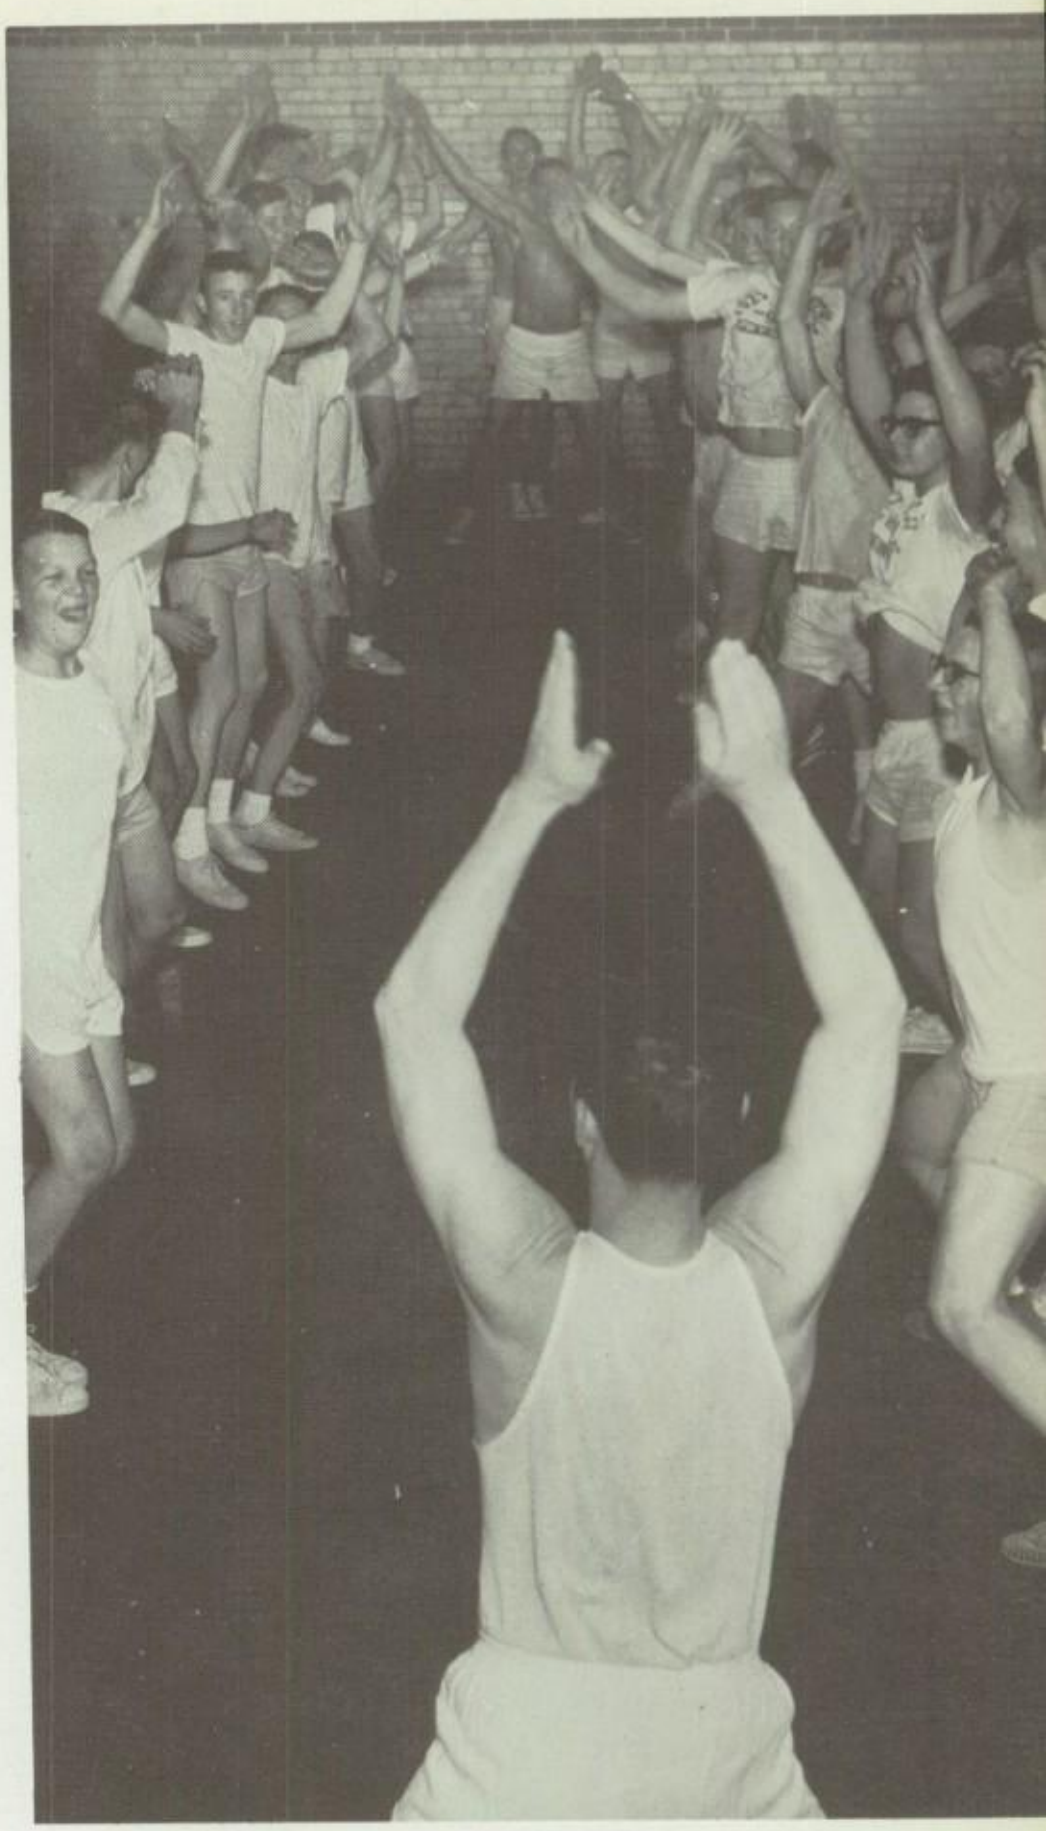
The daily exercise in the gym keeps the girls slim and trim.

Stretching on tiptoes for the ball is just one way girls get their exercise under the name of a basketball game.



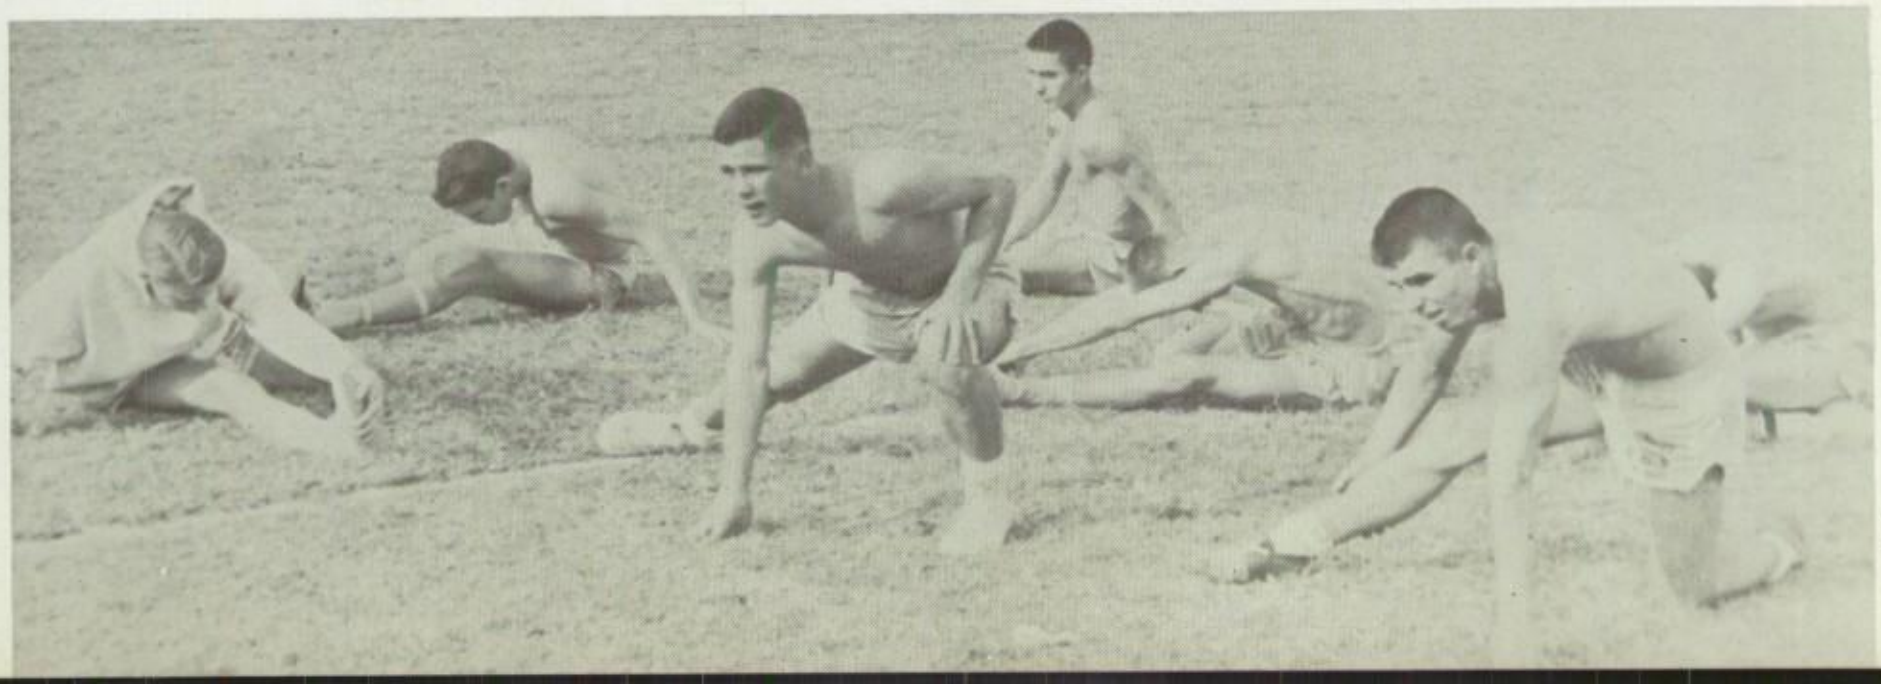
Above: This game may look unintelligible to the outsider, but to boys in gym classes crab ball might be called mass suicide. Right: The first 10 minutes of each gym period is used to loosen the joints with everything from "burpies" and push-ups to sit-ups and squat-thrusts--and then real activities begin.

With the nationwide interest in physical fitness, better health, and the development of the body, the physical education program here at Northside is giving students every possible opportunity to help themselves.

Since physical education is a required subject, almost everyone is acquainted with this department. It is required of all students unless they take publications, music, distributive education or office work. Activities in the department range from weight-lifting in the boys gym to dancing for the girls.

Tests are given twice a year to determine the physical fitness of the student body measured against national standards.

As long as the rain hasn't turned to sleet or the snow isn't sticking, many of the boys in gym have a chance in their daily routine, for they will be in the stadium exercising for one of two reasons--to keep in shape for track or just to keep from freezing.



English Department--Top row: Mrs. Dale Bennett, B.S., English I-II; Miss Nancy Brooks, B.A., English I-II, Spanish I-II, sponsor: High School Red Cross. Composition in all its aspects—research papers, informal essays, exposition and creative writing—was a much stressed part of all Northside English classes this year.

All classes of college preparatory English and advanced juniors and sophomores were required to write research papers and, by doing so, to make use of library tools such as card catalog, "Readers Guide" and reference books of different kinds.

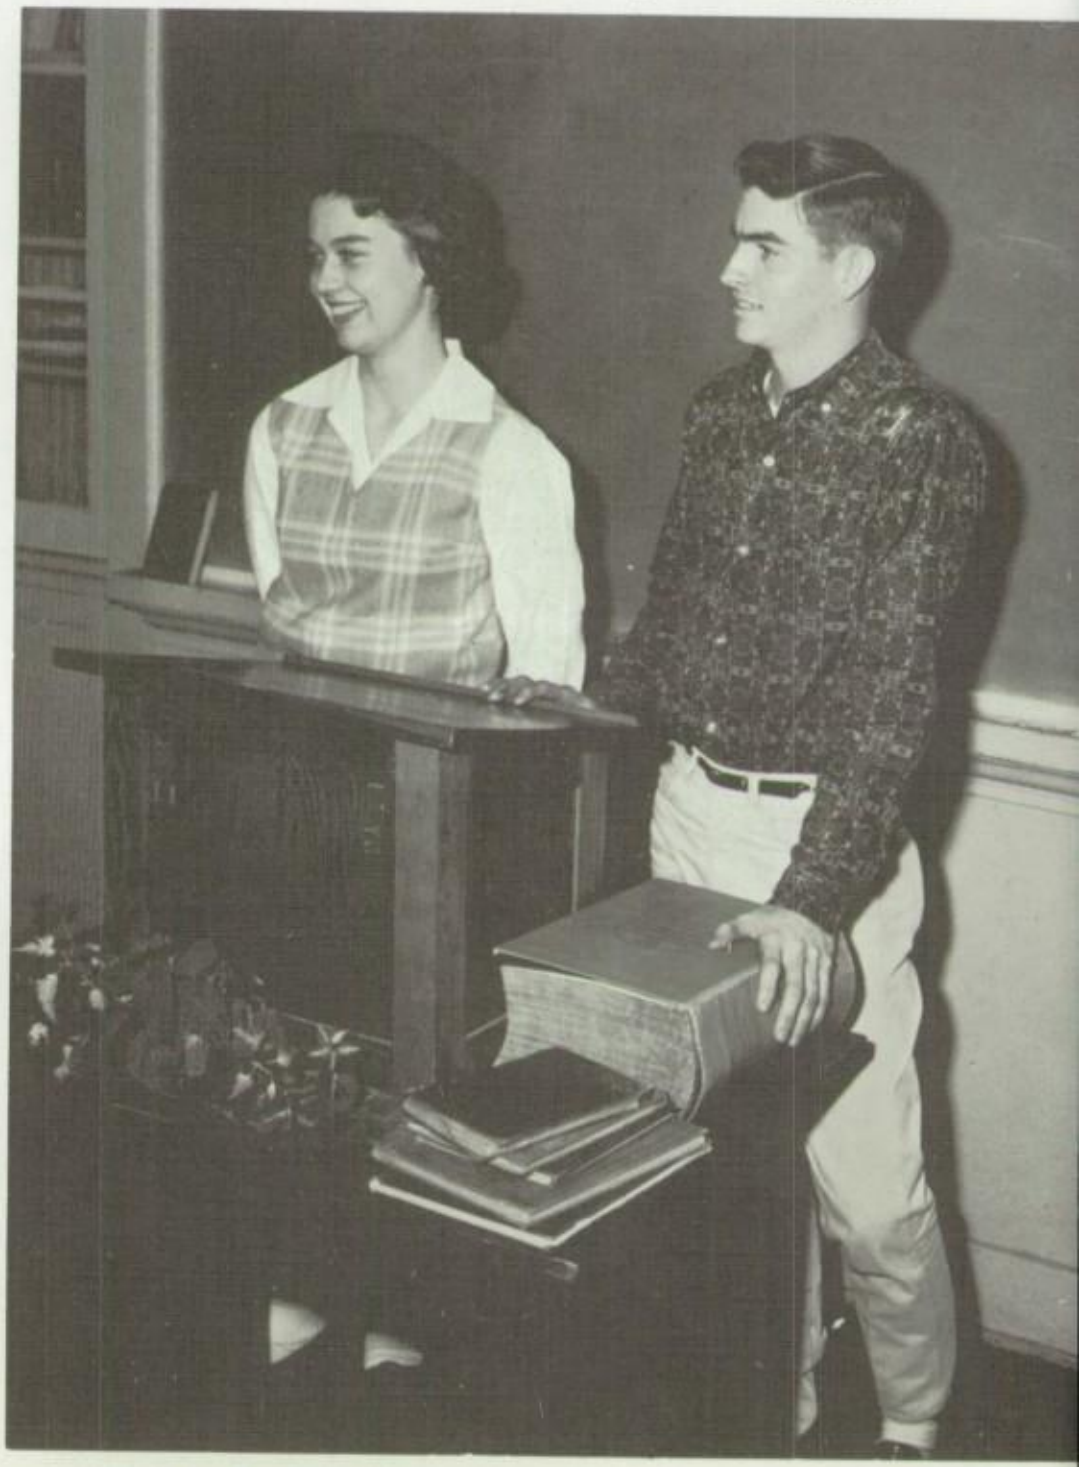
The Litsmith, school literary magazine, emphasized quality in writing by publishing many good examples of exposition and creative writing.

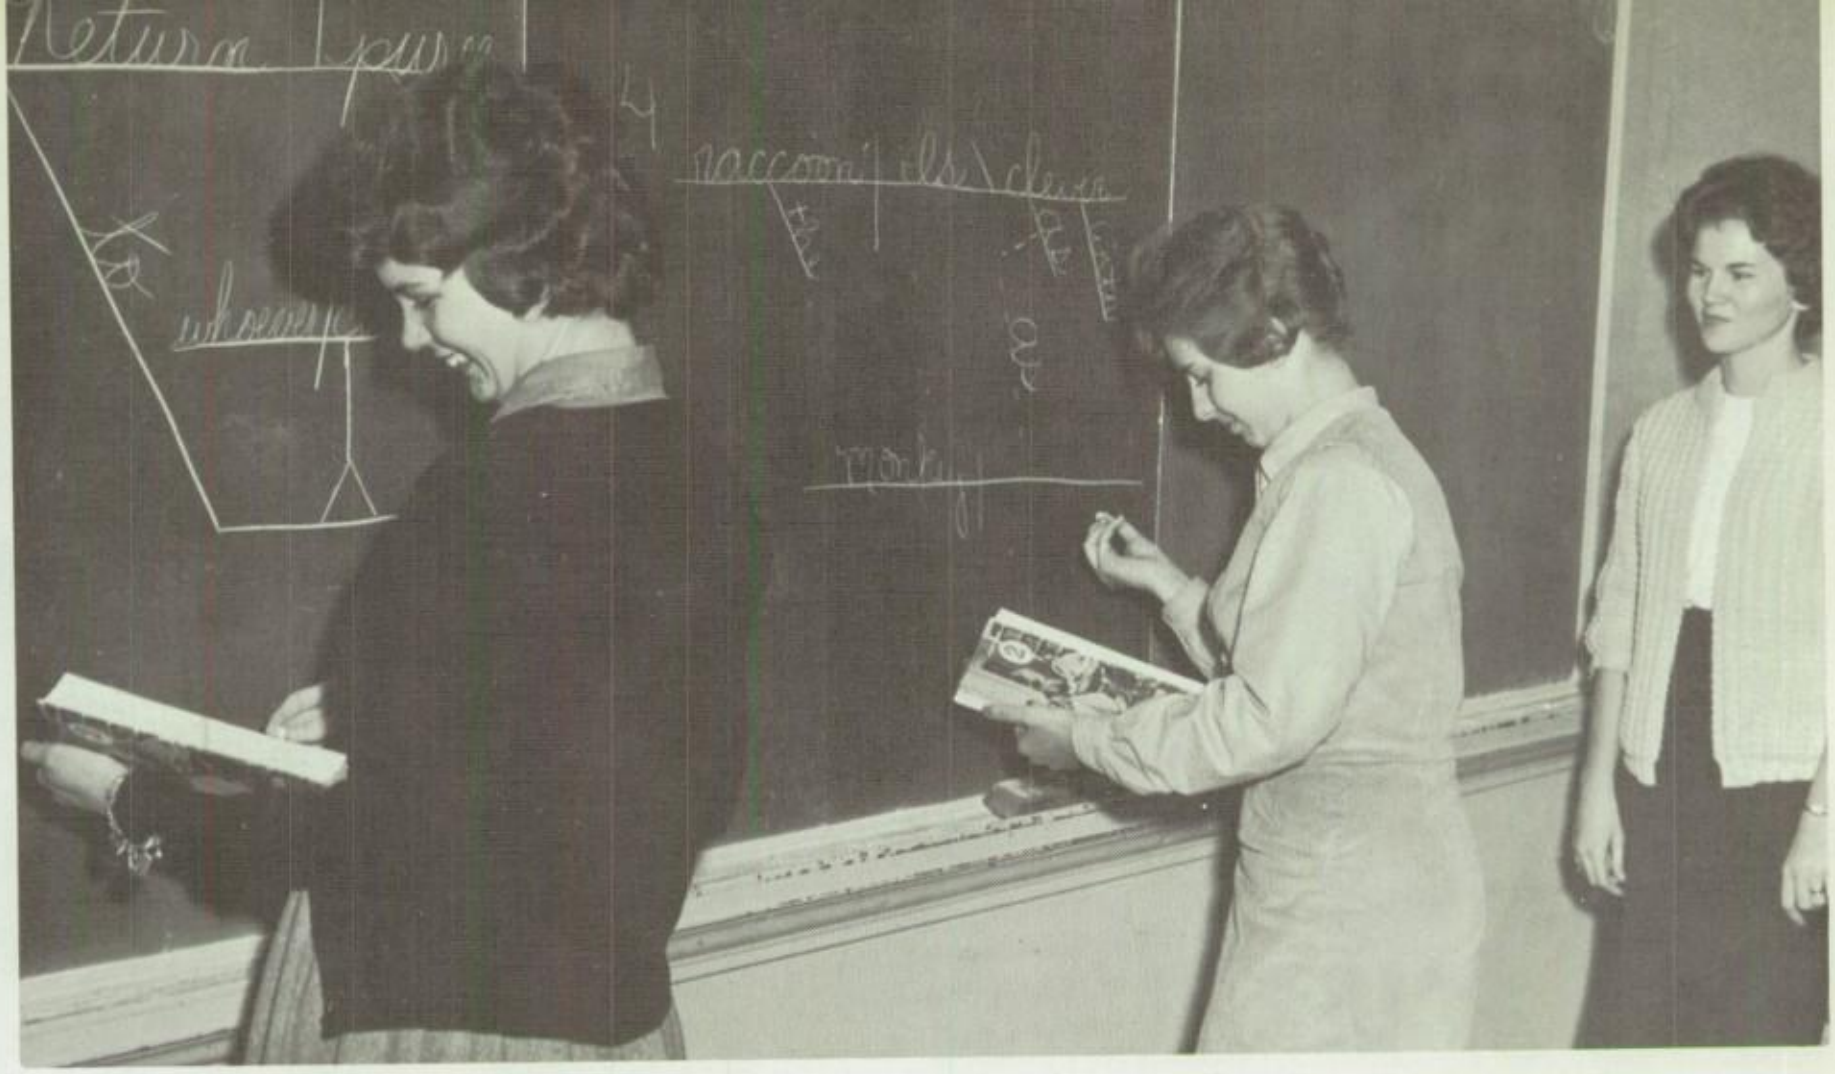
Two seniors, Marsha Leavitt and Carolyn Hoffmann, won awards in competition sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Great Books and Twentieth Century Novel were part of the study in three of Miss Pauline Poynor's college prep English classes.

Three double classes of eleventh grade English and American history had team teaching by Mrs. Clyde Grigsby and Miss Madge Evans.

An oral book report on an early drama was an assignment in a junior English class. Steve Page and Eugenia Watkins practice their reports.

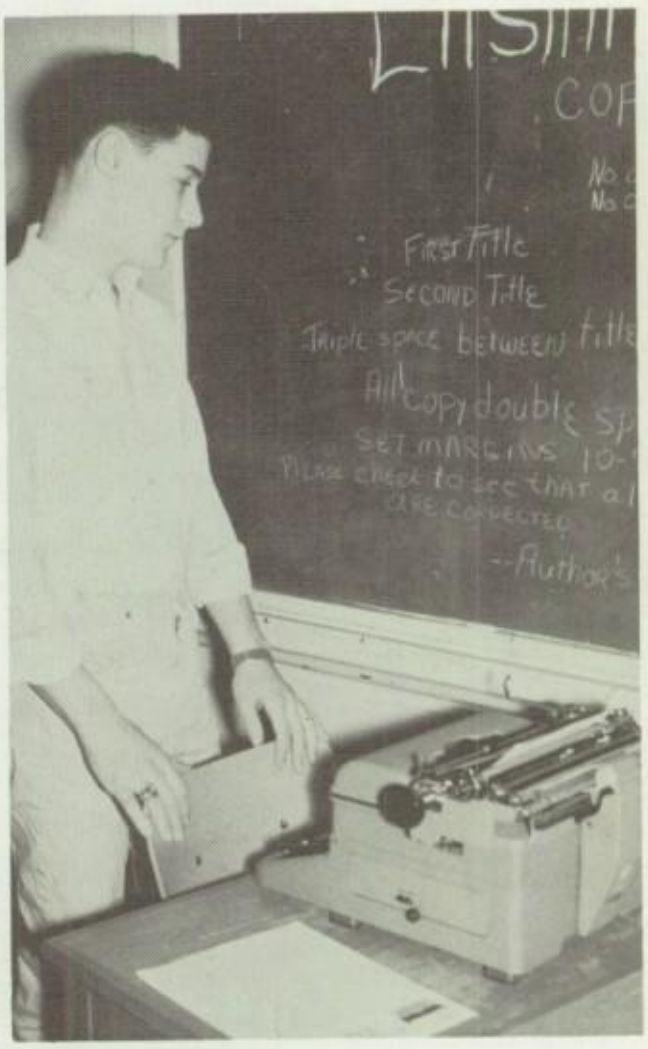




With the help of Miss Mary Lou Acord, the student teacher, Linda Parke and Sandy Morgan practice diagramming on the blackboard.

English improves reading, communication

English Department--Top row: Miss Ann Brady, B.S.E., English I-II, co-sponsor: Sophomore Class; Mrs. Russell Townsend, M.S., English I-II; Mrs. Clarke McLane, B.A., English III-IV. Second row: Mrs. Cam Cameron, B.S.E., M.S., English I-II; Mrs. Clyde Grigsby, B.A., English III-IV; Mrs. Bill Pharr, B.A., English I-II.



Using the special form provided, Ric Campbell types copy to submit for the Litsmith.

Mass confusion reigns in the Grizzly office the day the paper comes out. Dukes, assistant editor, and Peevy, editor, are aided in folding papers by the staff: Cromwell, Cradduck, Dobbs, Sonderegger, Burrows, Carter, Lovette, Hoffman, Parr, Carr, Plunkett and Finney.

Journalism office houses 3 publications

The Litsmith staff discuss art for the next issue: Jerry Dukes, assistant editor; Carolyn Hoffmann, editor; Kathy Morgan, art adviser.

Stan Haddock tries his hand at the enlarger while Lynn Wolbert, Bill Treat, Jim Rankin, Granville Johnson and Mr. Blair await the results.

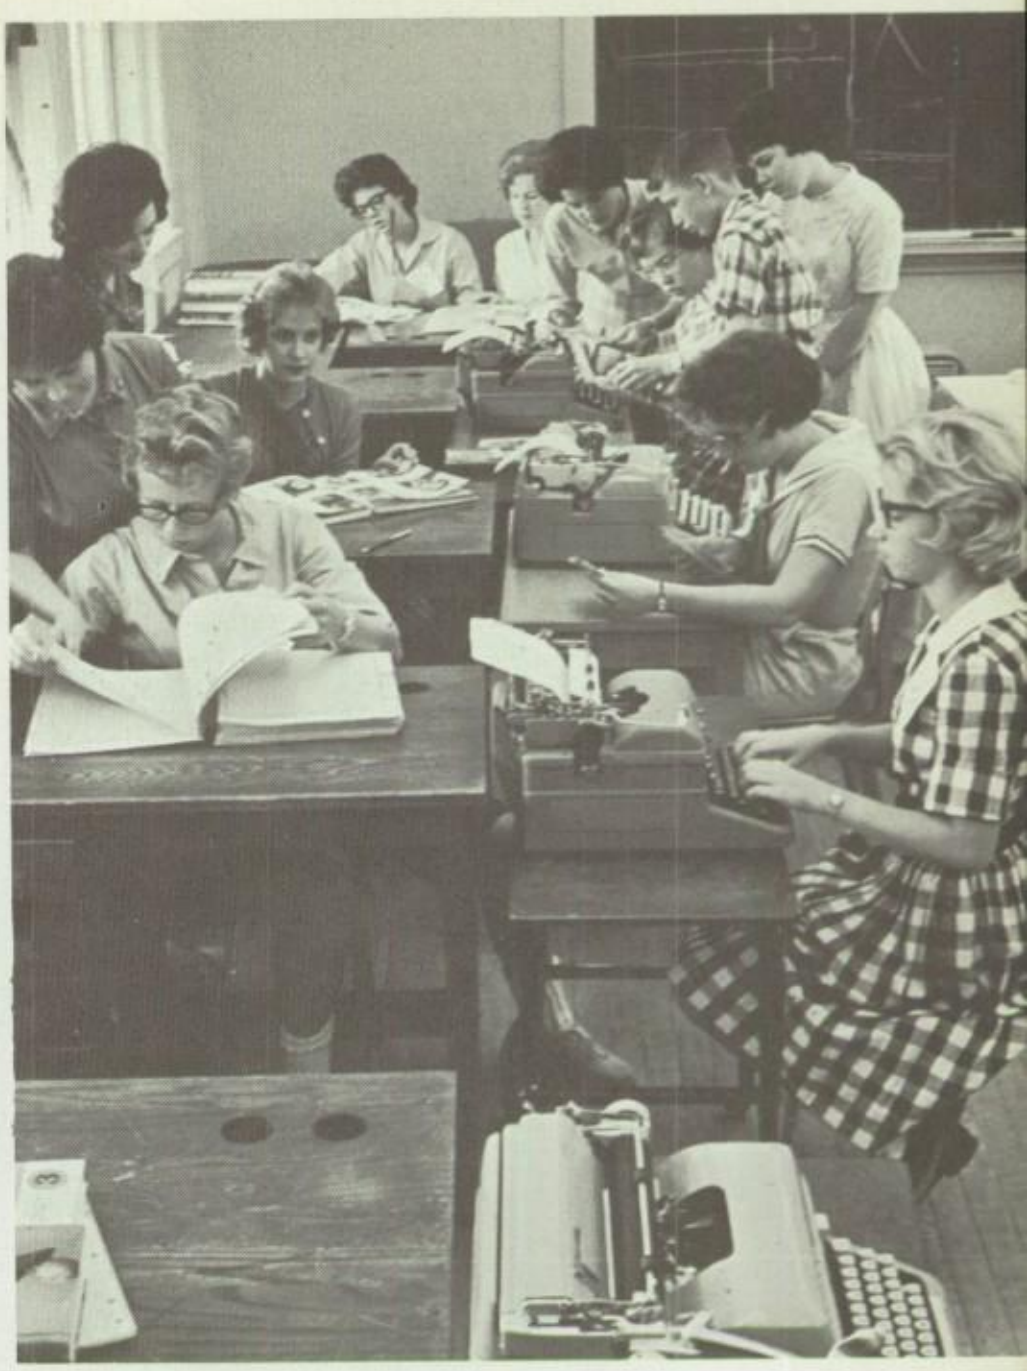
For the second consecutive year, the three publications of Northside are united into one department under the direction of Miss Hazel Presson.

The BRUIN and Grizzly, NHS yearbook and newspaper, are holders of top awards in national rankings. The Litsmith is a quarterly magazine composed of original prose and poetry submitted by the students in the English departments.

Both first-year and advanced journalism courses are included in the department. These are designed to provide staffs for the publications and to teach students to write for print.

The latest addition to the department is the photography class, formed when a darkroom was set up last fall. These students have contributed a number of pictures this year to the publications.

Journalism--Miss Hazel Presson, B.A., M.A., Journalism I-II, III-IV, adviser: BRUIN, Grizzly, Litsmith, Quill and Scroll.



The Bruin staff at work: Mendelsohn, Tays, Bauer, Bethell, McDonald, Scholze, Morgan, editor, Leavitt, Porter, Haddock, Holt and Funk.

Seizing the opportunity to do a little night work, publication staff members took time out to play host at PTA open house. Kathy Morgan, Marsha Leavitt, Carolyn Hoffmann, Carol Mendelsohn, Penni Holt, Shirley Lovette and Sue Sonderegger explain their work to Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Mendelsohn.

Languages offer 'change of pace'

"Buenas dias," "Guten Morgen," "Salve"—this combination of sounds fills the air at the beginning of each period in the language department.

The four languages offered to students at NHS are German, Spanish, French and Latin. To aid in the teaching of these languages, laboratory equipment has been added to let the student hear himself read and to converse with the instructor in privacy.

Not only is a student taught the language, but he also learns about the customs of the countries where the language is spoken.

As W. W. Keefe commented after his summer trip to Spain last year, "Languages can be an aid to pupils later on in life. If a student travels to or lives in a foreign country, the knowledge he acquires in high school from a language can be a great help."

Spanish students take advantage of an old custom in making this colorful pinata to represent Spain in the Christmas program.

Gary Dooley and Nan Stocker hang a picture in the German classroom to give students an idea of German architecture.

Saturnalia, a Roman holiday honoring Saturn, god of agriculture, was sponsored in December by the Latin classes. "Slaves" Jane Jeffery, Shirley Smith, Michele Hollon and Susie Heard perform for David Staggs, who reigned as Rex Saturnalia for the occasion.

Miss Randall's advanced students read French magazines in order to learn about the customs, government and people of France.

Language Department–Mrs. C. Daniel Johnson, B.A., French, German; Miss Ellen Perry Pride, B.A., M.A., Latin; Miss Mary F. Randall, B.A., M.S., French, sponsor: Le Cercle Francais.

Dramatics, speech encourage participation

Viki Sigler, Bob Kuykendall and Julie Simard listen closely to Ronnie Jackson's presentation of points in a formal debate.

Four things never come back—the sped arrow, the past life, the neglected opportunity and the spoken word. This is a basis for the speech classes presently being taught at Northside. The main purpose is to instill habits of good speech in high school students, so they can become effective speakers and overcome nervousness when appearing before a group.

The speech course now includes debate and dramatics in a full year course. Debate teaches students to argue logically and with reason. Dramatics furthers speaking ability, attempts to teach the difference between good and poor plays and encourages students to participate in community or Little Theatre groups after graduating.

Art students pursue variety of interests

The art program here at Northside consists of a study of art elements such as line, shape, color, value and texture. These basics must be arranged in a composition possessing unity, balance, either formal or informal, and rhythm.

All of these are areas of experimentation in general art. They are incorporated into commercial art, drawing and painting and fashion drawing. The craft class engages in more three dimensional work such as clay, plaster, sculpture, mosaics and experimenting with various other materials for a creative effect.

Mrs. Paul Dean, head of the art department, states that "Contrary to the belief of most people, we do not teach students 'how' to draw, but instead strive for unusual, creative ways to express the same old subject matter that is sometimes boring to them."

Art Department--Mrs. Paul Dean, B.S.E., General Art, Drawing and Painting, Commercial Art and Fashion Drawing, sponsor: Alpha Rho Tau.

Parents search for their children's efforts in water colors and ink during the open house sponsored by the PTA. Mrs. Dean and Wayne Stevens, the student teacher, explain the work to them.

Jim Horne, Sherri Schoeppe, Linda Stone, Charlotte Hart, Steve Page, Barbara Qualls, Mrs. Dean, Bob Everett and Agapito Pablo present some of their better works, including everything from posters and sculpture to oil, charcoal and water color paintings.

Choral Director--Miss Edna Earle Massey, B.A., M.A., Mixed Chorus, Male Chorus, Bel Canto, Sophomore Girls Glee Club, Music Theory.

"Now, Sweethearts, sing!" Thus the members of the choral groups begin their daily session with Miss Edna Earle Massey, choral director. Through this training, these students sing for civic clubs and in assemblies, give Christmas, Easter and May concerts and attend the annual northwest district choral festival in Fayetteville and the state festival in Hot Springs, where, judged by noted directors, they continue to win superior ratings.

In addition to choruses, the department includes several trios who practice regularly and appear on both community and school programs.

Student directors and pianists also get plenty of practice. Besides gaining skill in directing, these helpers give Miss Massey a chance to "roam" and hear the voices of her "sweethearts."

Approximately one of every six students in Northside is a member of the choral department.

Bascom Freeman and David L. Bell served as the drum majors this year.

Action was the keynote for the '62-'63 Grizzly band. Pre-season practice started in August in preparation for the first football game of the season, as marching is an important part of the band program.

With the close of the marching season, came preparations for the Christmas concert, first of the three annual concerts. The band parents appreciation concert was held in February and the spring concert in May.

Holiday rehearsals were held to prepare for the Four States Band Masters convention at which the Grizzly band served as the honor band from Arkansas.

Northside was the scene of the tryouts for the senior clinic, with 57 of the NHS band named to attend the clinic held at Fayetteville.

"South Pacific" was next on the agenda, top players being selected to serve as the orchestra for the Broadway musical.

In March the all-state tryouts and concert were held and practice began for the regional and state festivals.

The final performance of the year is the marching in the rodeo parade in late May.

7 nominees make finals in contest for Bruin Beauty

The girls running for Bruin Beauty were judged only by the pictures they submitted to their sponsors. From the three classes, approximately 100 pictures were submitted.

Names of the seven finalists were kept secret this year in hope that it would make the announcement of the Bruin Beauty a bigger surprise.

Annual feature Bruin search for beauties

The Bruin Beauty contest is an annual feature of the yearbook, kept secret until the book is out.

Students nominate girls who they feel would like to compete for the honor. Changing the former selection procedure, this year a semi-finalist group was named. As before, the class sponsors selected judges to choose the beauties from their classes. Sophomores have six nominees, juniors six, seniors seven. Then the sponsors submitted these to the dean of girls, who selected judges to choose two sophomore semi-finalists, two juniors and three seniors.

The staff then sent this group to E. G. Marshall, well-known actor for the final selection.

raise revenue for annual band activities

White gowns, red roses, colorful uniforms, excitement and happiness are among the many words that can be used to describe the coronation of the 1963 band queen.

The band queen candidates are selected by a committee made up of faculty members and band parents. To be eligible a girl must be a senior, be of good character and have a "C" grade average.

This year, after a dramatic contest of seeing who could sell the most band tickets, Kay Morton walked away with the honor while Gail Preston came in second. The other members of Kay's court and candidates for band queen were Gail Altman, Kay Buell, Sally Rodgers, Janie Shane and Carleen Wise.

The total amount raised this year was $3,218.74, far exceeding the amount raised in each of the three previous contests.

Proceeds from the band queen contest are used to sponsor the varied activities in which the band takes part and to purchase the additional equipment that the band needs. This year the funds raised helped finance the trip to Texarkana, where the band was invited to play for the Four States Band Masters convention.

Escort Joe Edwards looks on as Kay Morton is crowned by Mr. Shaver.

Marsha Riddle-Randy Bell

Who's Who is an election held in December or January every year to select 18 senior personalities to represent the outstanding teen-agers of Northside in a special section in the Bruin.

Members of the student body submit their nominations for boys and girls who they think fit into the nine categories. After the nominations have been made, the senior council is in charge of printing a ballot. Voting takes place in the home rooms, only seniors being allowed to vote. Then senior council members start the tedious task of counting the votes.

Usually a runoff must be held, because frequently one person wins in two categories.

The nine categories that are selected by popular vote are best all-round, wittiest, most athletic, most intellectual, best-groomed, best looking, most talented, most popular and most likely to succeed.

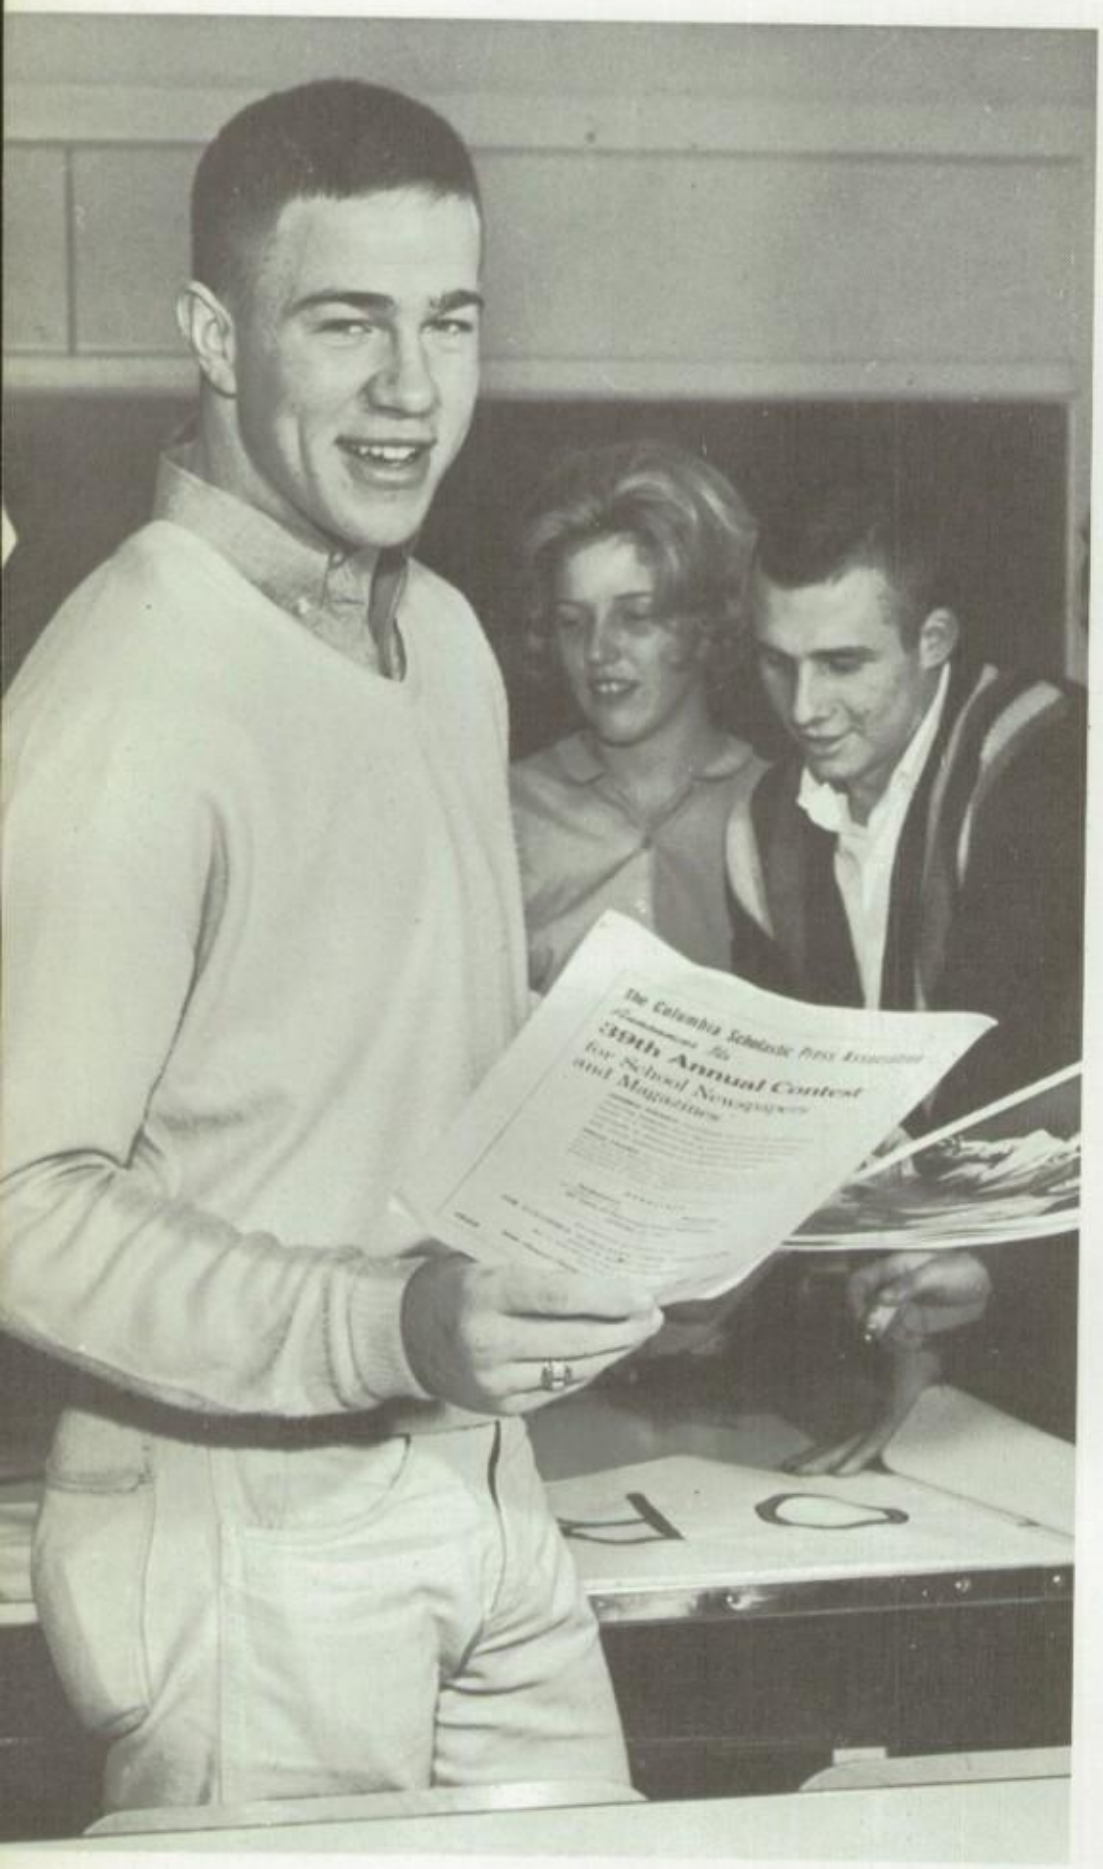
13 seniors cited for special achievement,

One of the traditional features of the BRUIN, the annual Hall of Fame was instituted to give recognition to those seniors who distinguish themselves throughout their high school career in one or more ways.

Qualities considered include scholastic achievement, exceptional abilities, special service to the school, participation in student government and organizations and general all-round development.

Nominations for candidates for the Hall of Fame are made by the senior council and then submitted to the faculty, who vote by secret ballot for those persons whom they think most worthy of the honor. This year the faculty was asked to vote for 12 from a list of more than 50. Because of a tie, there are 13 students included.

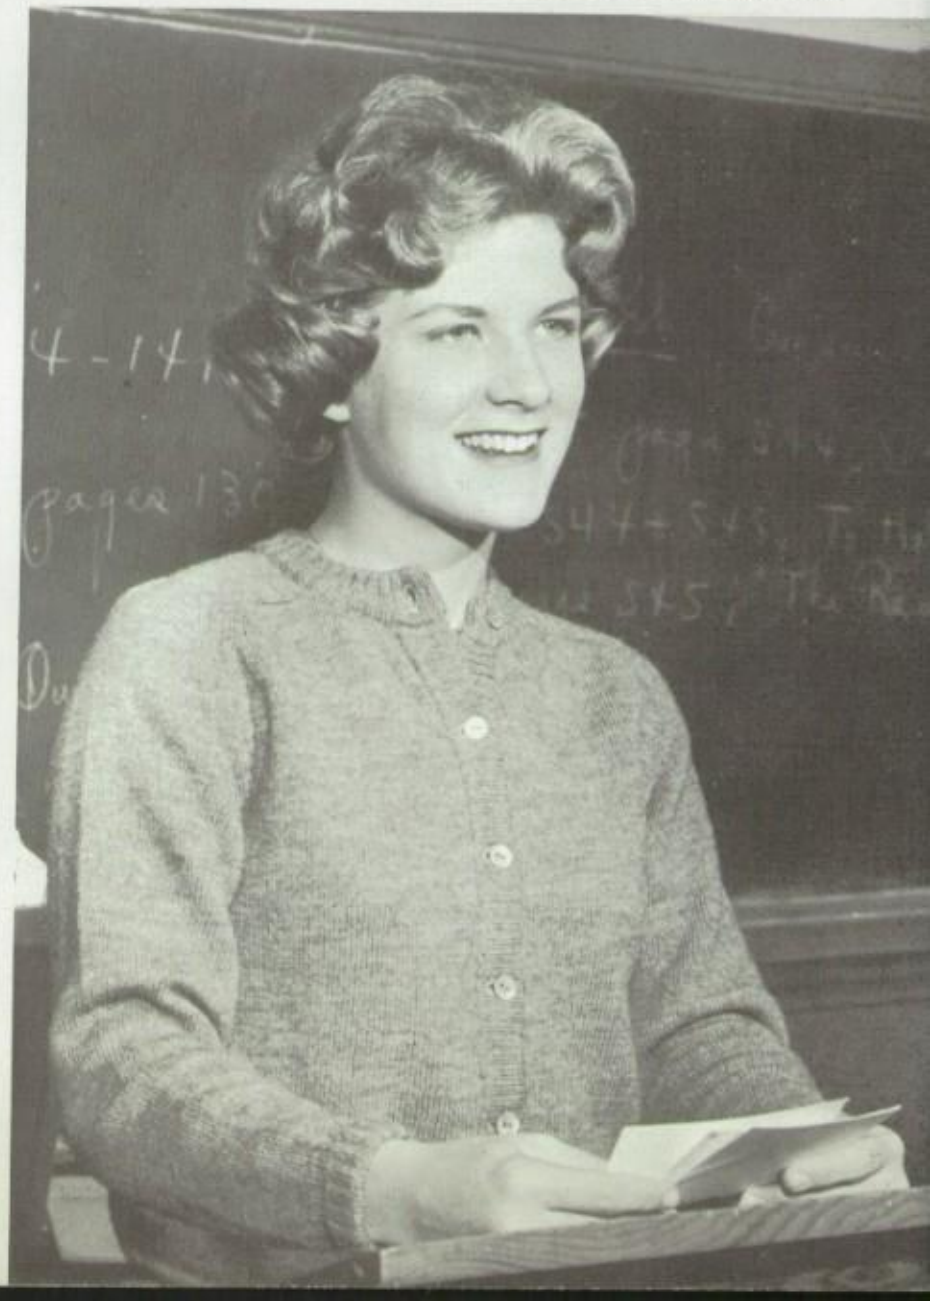


Tom Corbin

An outstanding athlete - winner of the "most valuable player" award at the close of the football season - Tom Corbin also is one of the prominent student leaders on campus, serving as president of the senior class and supporting various other clubs.

Harriett Hubbard

Interested in all phases of campus life, Harriett Hubbard participates in a wide variety of activities, ranging from scholastic achievement to cheerleading and student government.



named to '63 Bruin Hall of Fame

Marsha

Leavitt

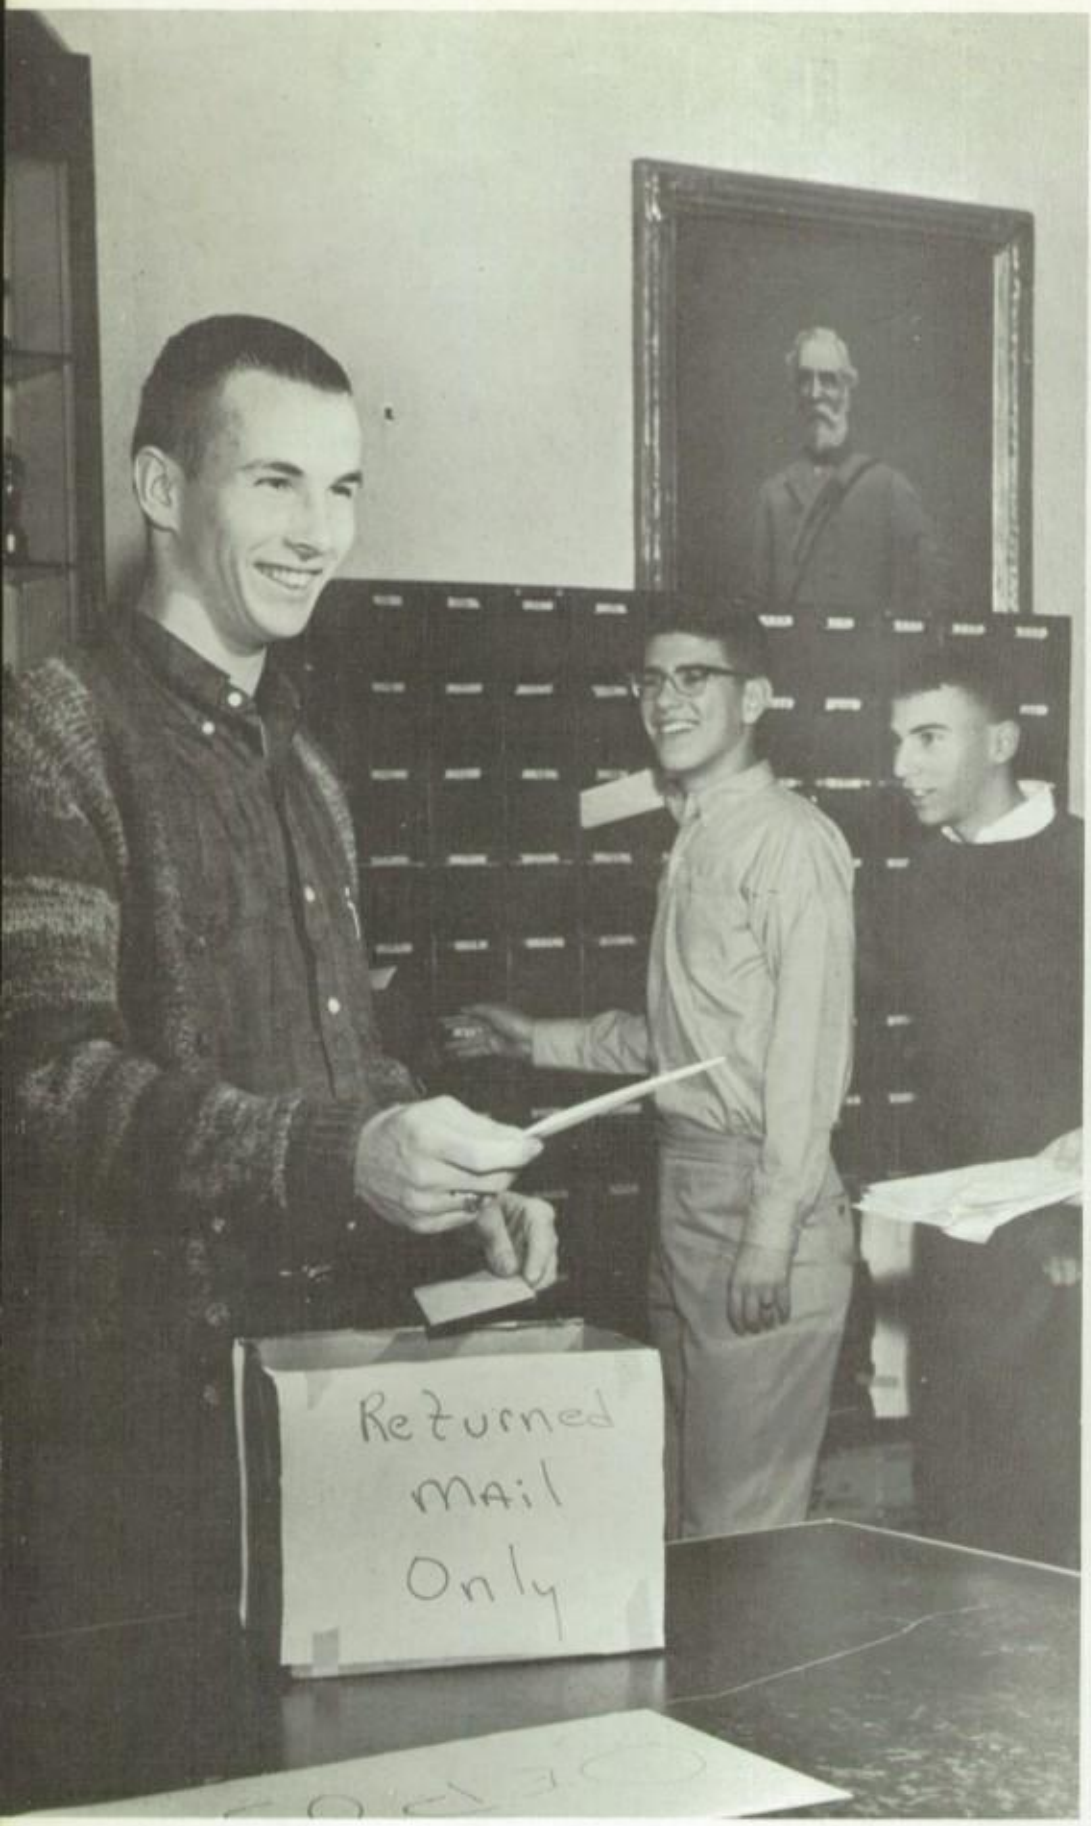
Marsha Leavitt's record proves that a student can achieve high-scholastic honors and at the same time participate fully in campus life. A Merit finalist, she is a winner in NCTE competition. Her activities include publications, dramatics, music and various clubs.

Carolyn

Hoffmann

Carolyn Hoffmann is a winner of academic honors who can also find time to cultivate many other interests, including publications and music. A Merit finalist and NCTE winner, she serves as editor of the Litsmith and participates in various other organizations.

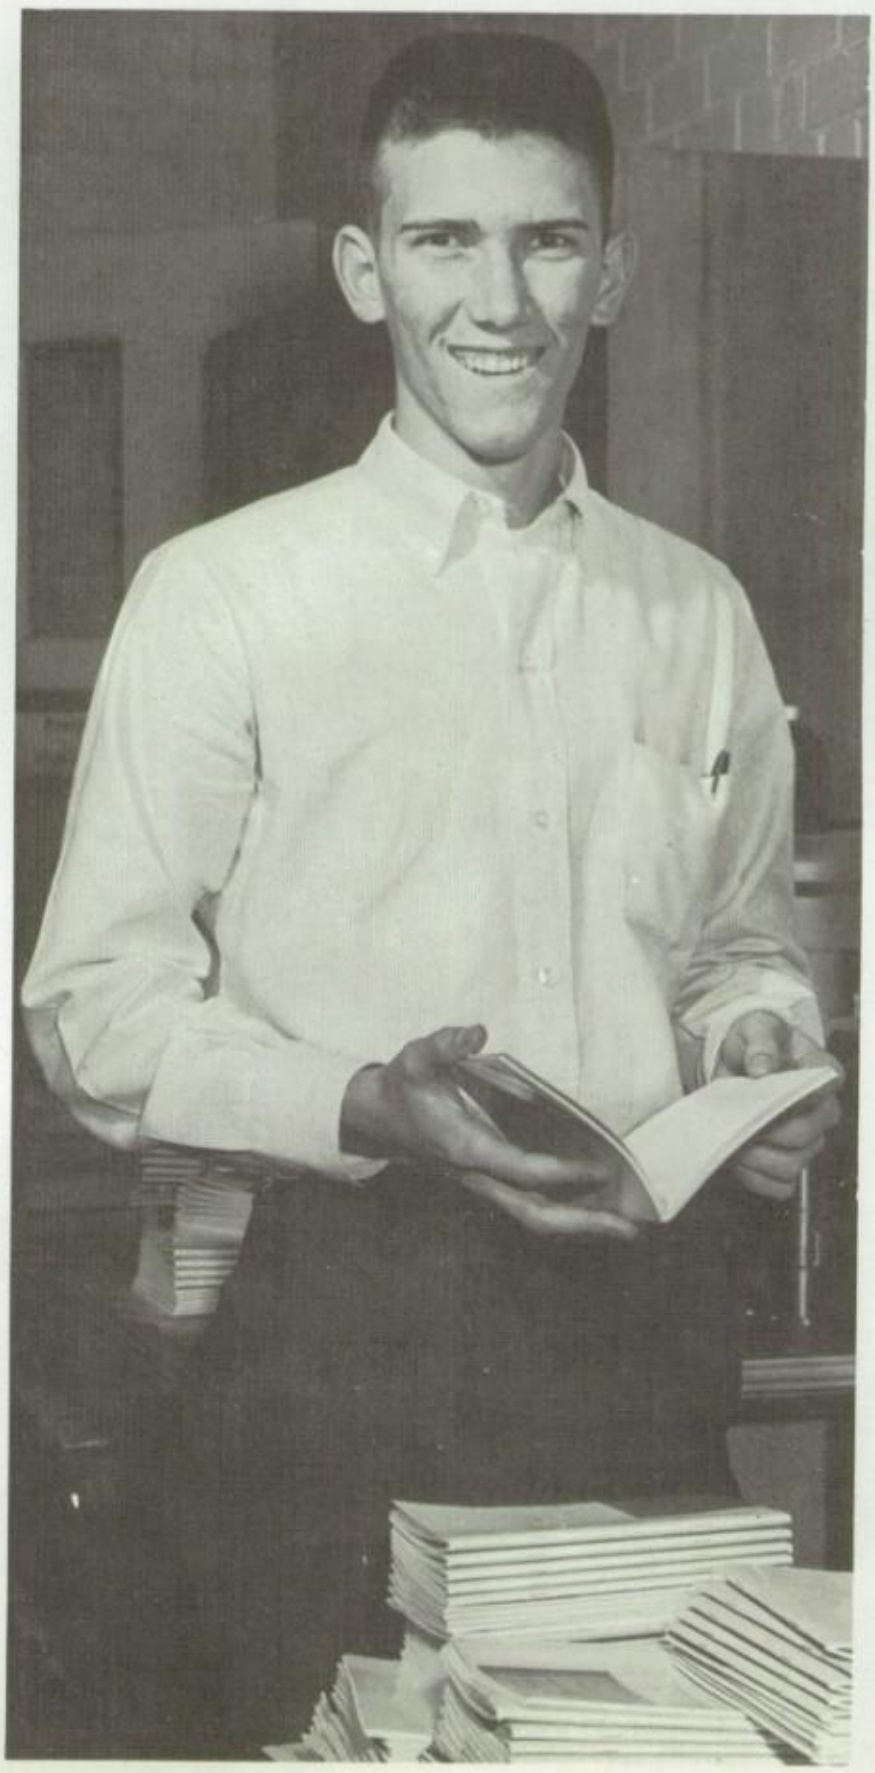
4 hold top offices in student groups



Steve Plunkett

The "Mr. President" of Northside, Steve Plunkett has taken an active interest in organizations and programs designed to improve school life. In addition to serving as president of the student body two semesters, he has taken part in many activities

Mike Ferrell



Mike Ferrell is well known for both academic achievement and leadership in student groups. A Merit finalist, he has served as Key Club president and held offices in many other campus organizations.

Gloria

Savage

Gloria Savage is prominent in both scholastic achievement and student affairs. Though probably best known in connection with her interest in library work, she is also an active member of a variety of campus clubs.

Julie

Simard

Julie Simard's leadership in student government is well illustrated in the record of her activities, including offices in the student council and a number of other organizations. She is known as an able all-round student.

Elizabeth Hawk

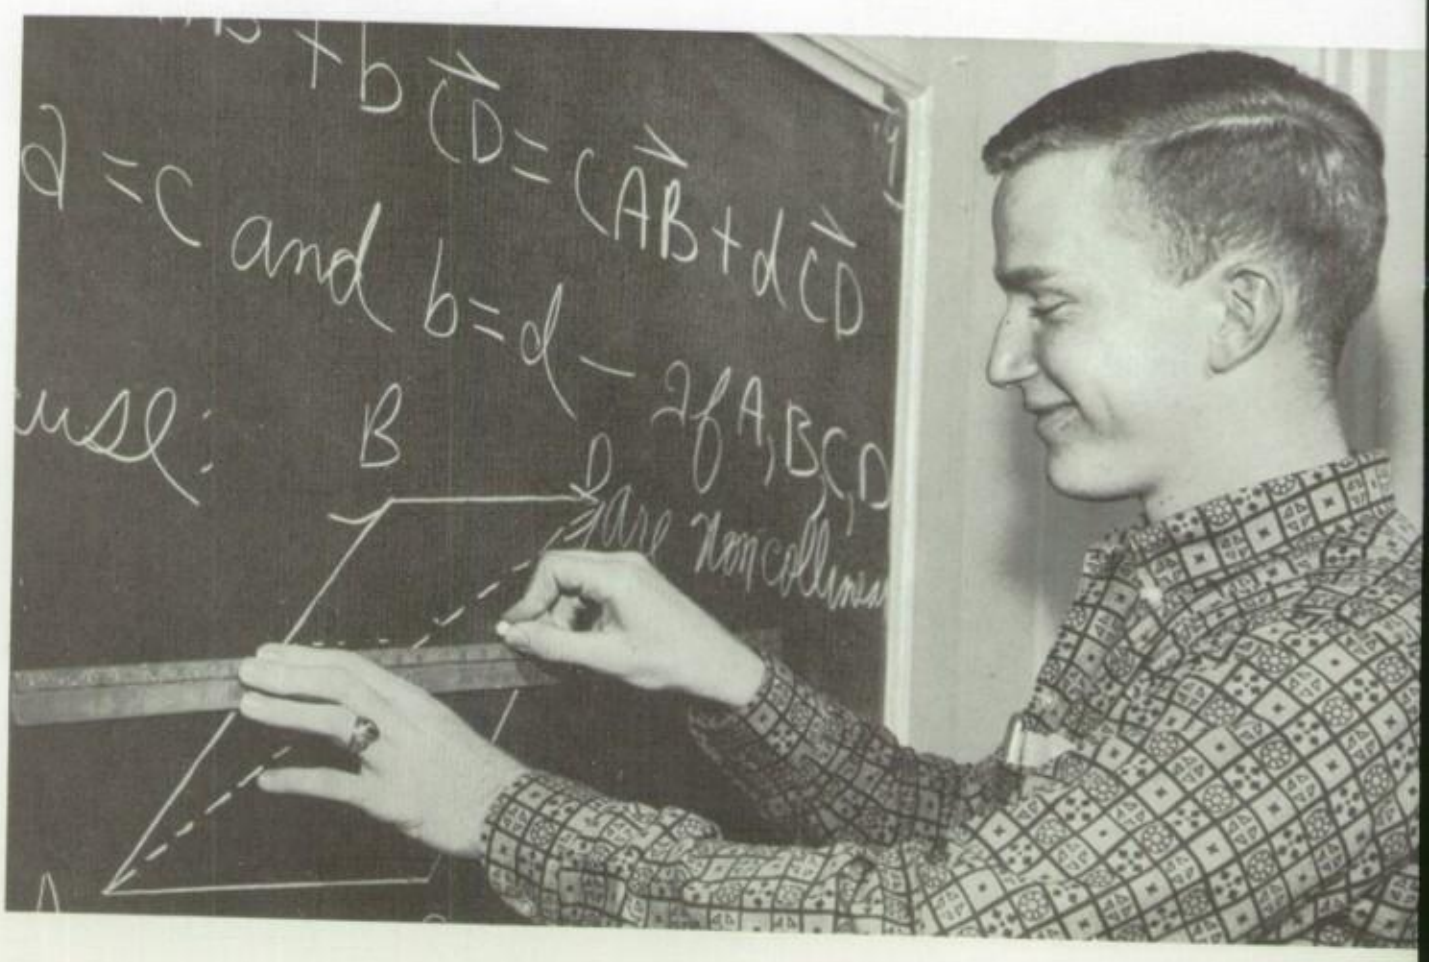
Elizabeth Hawk is probably best known as an organist for the daily devotionals, but she is also a top honor student and Merit finalist. She was named the DAR "Good Citizen" of 1963.

Pat Funk

Pat Funk, the typical versatile all-round student, finds time for her special interest in music and publications while also maintaining a high scholastic average and taking part in clubs.

Jim Floyd

A Merit finalist, outstanding in mathematics especially, Jim Floyd has had recognition in a number of ways, one of which was an invitation to visit the Bell laboratories in New Jersey in February. He is active in a number of clubs and prominent in student government.



Group distinguished by special abilities

Kathy Morgan

Best known as the editor of the BRUIN, Kathy Morgan is also a participant in many campus activities. An enthusiastic art student, she serves as art adviser for Litsmith.

Ronnie Jackson

As a top basketball player and all-round student, Ronnie Jackson participates in a number of campus organizations and is active in various phases of student government.

These Girls Staters attended Camp Robinson last summer, and when they get together they have a lot to chat about. They are Carolyn Hoffmann, Lorraine McCraney, Ellen Jackson, Marcie Pearce, Patti Rawlings, Cindy Robinson, Cissy Crampton, Eileen Adams, Kathy Morgan, Elaine England, Pat Funk, George Ann Miller, Penni Holt, Marsha Riddle, Jenny Boley, Julie Simard, Harriett Hubbard and Marsha Leavitt.

Representing Northside High School, these 12 boys attended Boys State last summer at Camp Robinson: Ruffin Snow, Johnny Sawyer, Ronnie Jackson, John Danner, Mike Ferrell, Steve Plunkett, Butch Edwards, Joe Edwards, Jimmy Floyd, Randy Bell and Barry Kincannon.

31 Northsiders are Staters for '62

Every year faculty members nominate students who they feel would benefit the most by attending Boys State and Girls State. They then send to the dean a list of the students whom they have decided upon. The students with the most nominations are then considered eligible to attend Boys State and Girls State.

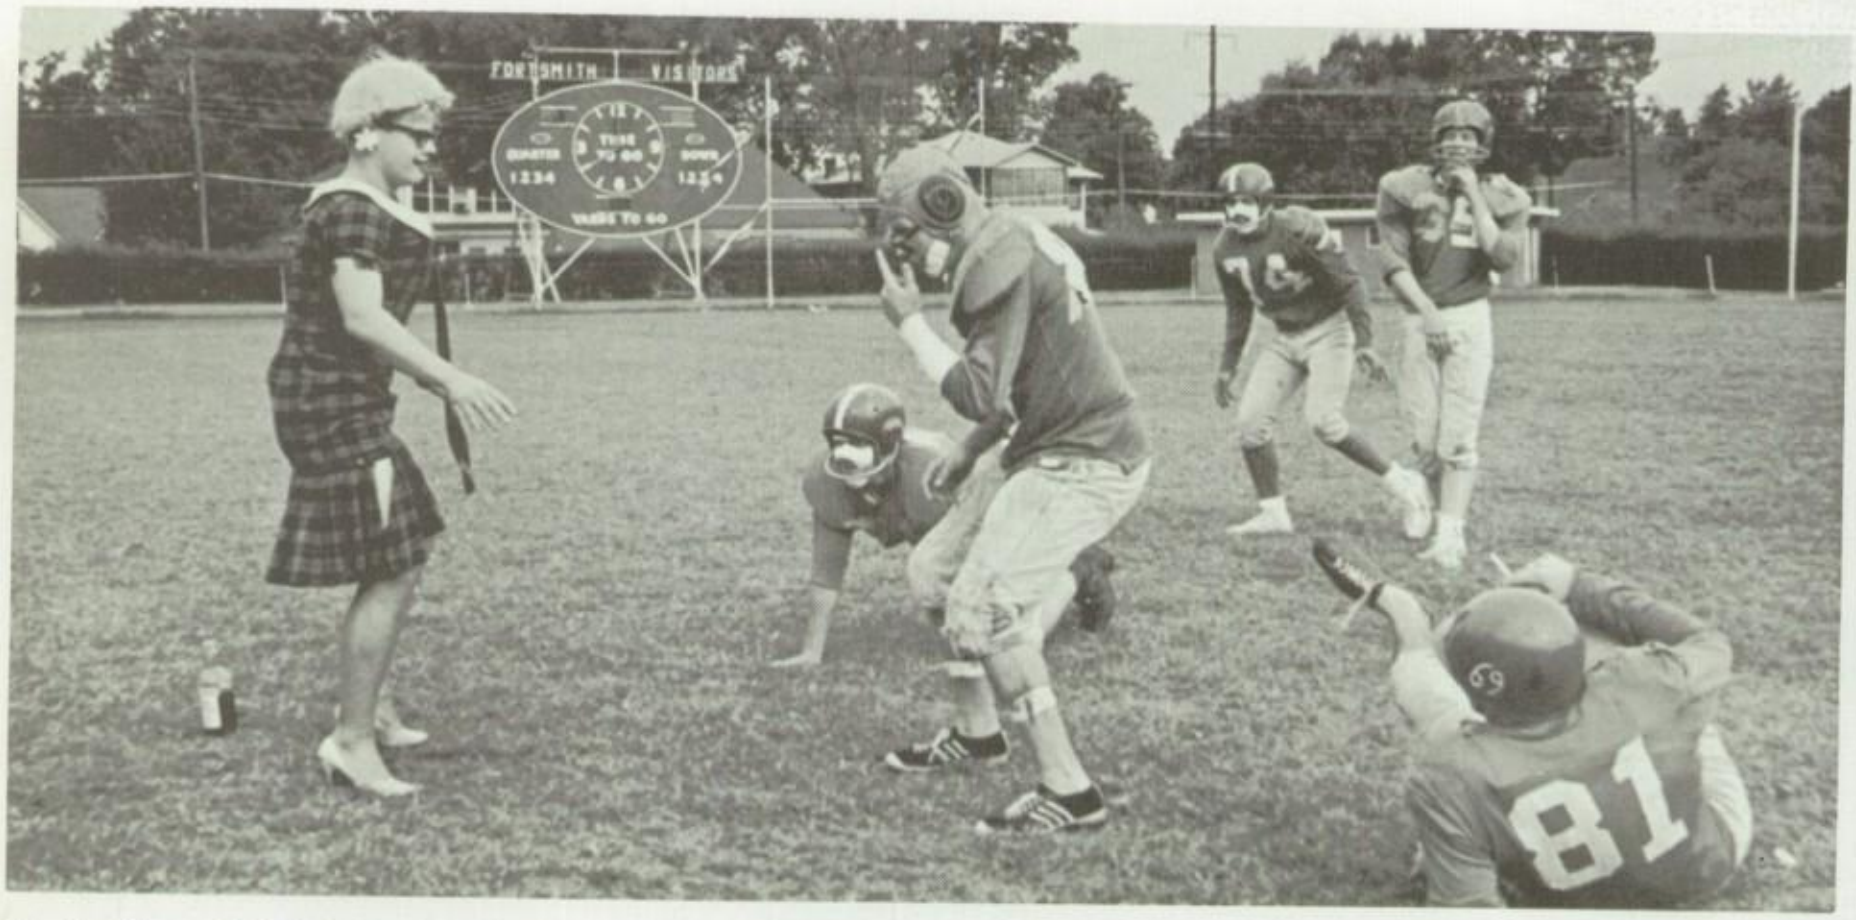
The list of the nominees is then given to the American Legion, which finds sponsors for the Staters.

Each group attends a week of activity at Camp Robinson near Little Rock early in June. While at the camp they practice democracy, giving election speeches, holding state and county elections, and taking a tour of the state capitol.

State offices were held at Boys State and Girls State by Joe Edwards, associate justice of the supreme court; Ronnie Jackson, chief justice of the supreme court; Harriett Hubbard, chief justice of the supreme court; Patti Rawlings, attorney-general; and Penni Holt, associate justice of the supreme court. Other Girl Staters who made it to the door in the election against the opposing party are (reading down) Kathy Morgan, nominee for attorney-general; Marcie Pearce nominee for state auditor; and Jenny Boley, nominee for associate justice.

Marsha Leavitt, one of Fort Smith's delegates to Girls State, represented Arkansas at Girls Nation in Washington, D. C. Since then, she has made many speeches to local groups explaning how these programs teach about democracy.

Northside students go all out for many



Yantis, Belzung, Wright, Elkins, Karrant and Edwards entertain their fellow cheering classmates at the homecoming pep assembly

The junior class "skunk's tail" captured first place in the parade.

Homecoming involves many activities and hours of planning and work. It all begins weeks beforehand when clubs and classes work on themes and designs for their floats, kept secret until building time. Hours of toil bring these proudly displayed designs to Garrison Avenue, where crowds wait with eager anticipation for their handiwork to pass by. The winning float was the mechanical skunk's tail entered by the junior class.

Game spirit begins Thursday night with a snake dance down Garrison Avenue and a pep assembly at a local bus terminal, followed by a noisy car caravan heading for the airport for more pep around a glowing bonfire.

Friday begins with a morning pep assembly where boys dress as the opposing team in the big tilt and present a comedy skit for the student body.

The climax of all homecoming preparations comes in the pre-game ceremonies when the royal court takes its place on the field and the superintendent of schools crowns the homecoming queen.

After the homecoming football game—this year a 26-6 victory over Texarkana—homecoming week is closed out for one more year with a gala dance in the cafeteria.

'South Pacific' means success for hard work

"South Pacific," this year's musical sponsored by the Grizzly band, senior class, Sock and Buskin and vocal department, had a sell-out two days before the show opened on February 15 for three performances. Two hold-over shows were presented the following week, plus a scheduled performance at Fort Chaffee, February 23.

Bess Owens practices her dance for cast members Ray Schaap, Larry Renshaw, Linda Miller, Lollie McDonald and Bill White.

Seniors Produce Annual Class Play

"Teahouse of the August Moon" was presented by the seniors November 30-December 1 as the annual class play. "Teahouse," a comedy, caused a good deal of trouble in the form of a billy goat named "Lady Astor." The loss and eventual return of "the lady" on dress rehearsal night gave the play the best possible publicity. While cast members searched, radio and television pleaded for "her" return and the newspaper carried a front page feature. The money earned on the play was applied on the class gift.

White catches his prize officer, Brown, transporting a group of villagers (N., S. and M. Britton, Bray, Renshaw, McDonald, Howard and the goat) in an army jeep.

Life at Northside would not be complete without the sports activities. There are three varsity teams to which boys can belong if the requirements are met. For the boys not on the varsities, the athletic department provides a program of intramural and out-of-school sports. The main purpose of this program is to help boys become and remain physically fit. For once the football boys are able to sit back and watch while the rest of the student body does the work, during one of many pep rallies.

The victory bell rang loud and long September 7 as the Grizzlies defeated their neighboring rivals, the Van Buren Pointers, in the opening game of the season with a score of 16-7 at Grizzly stadium.

A week later the Grizzlies shut out their first Big 9 foes, the El Dorado Wildcats. Being on unfamiliar ground and going scoreless three quarters hindered the Bruins little, for Robert Marley pulled through early in the fourth quarter to go over the Wildcat line for a 6-0 victory.

A strong, undefeated Pine Bluff team handed the Grizzlies their first loss on September 21. The hard-fought score of 6-2 came about when in the face of defeat the Bear's charging defense threw the Zebras behind the goal line for a safety.

Returning with enthusiasm and a new attack, the Grizzlies trounced the Subiaco Trojans 32-6 on home ground September 28. Barry Kincannon sparkled on pass completions while Carl Rose dominated the ground gaining for the Grizzlies.

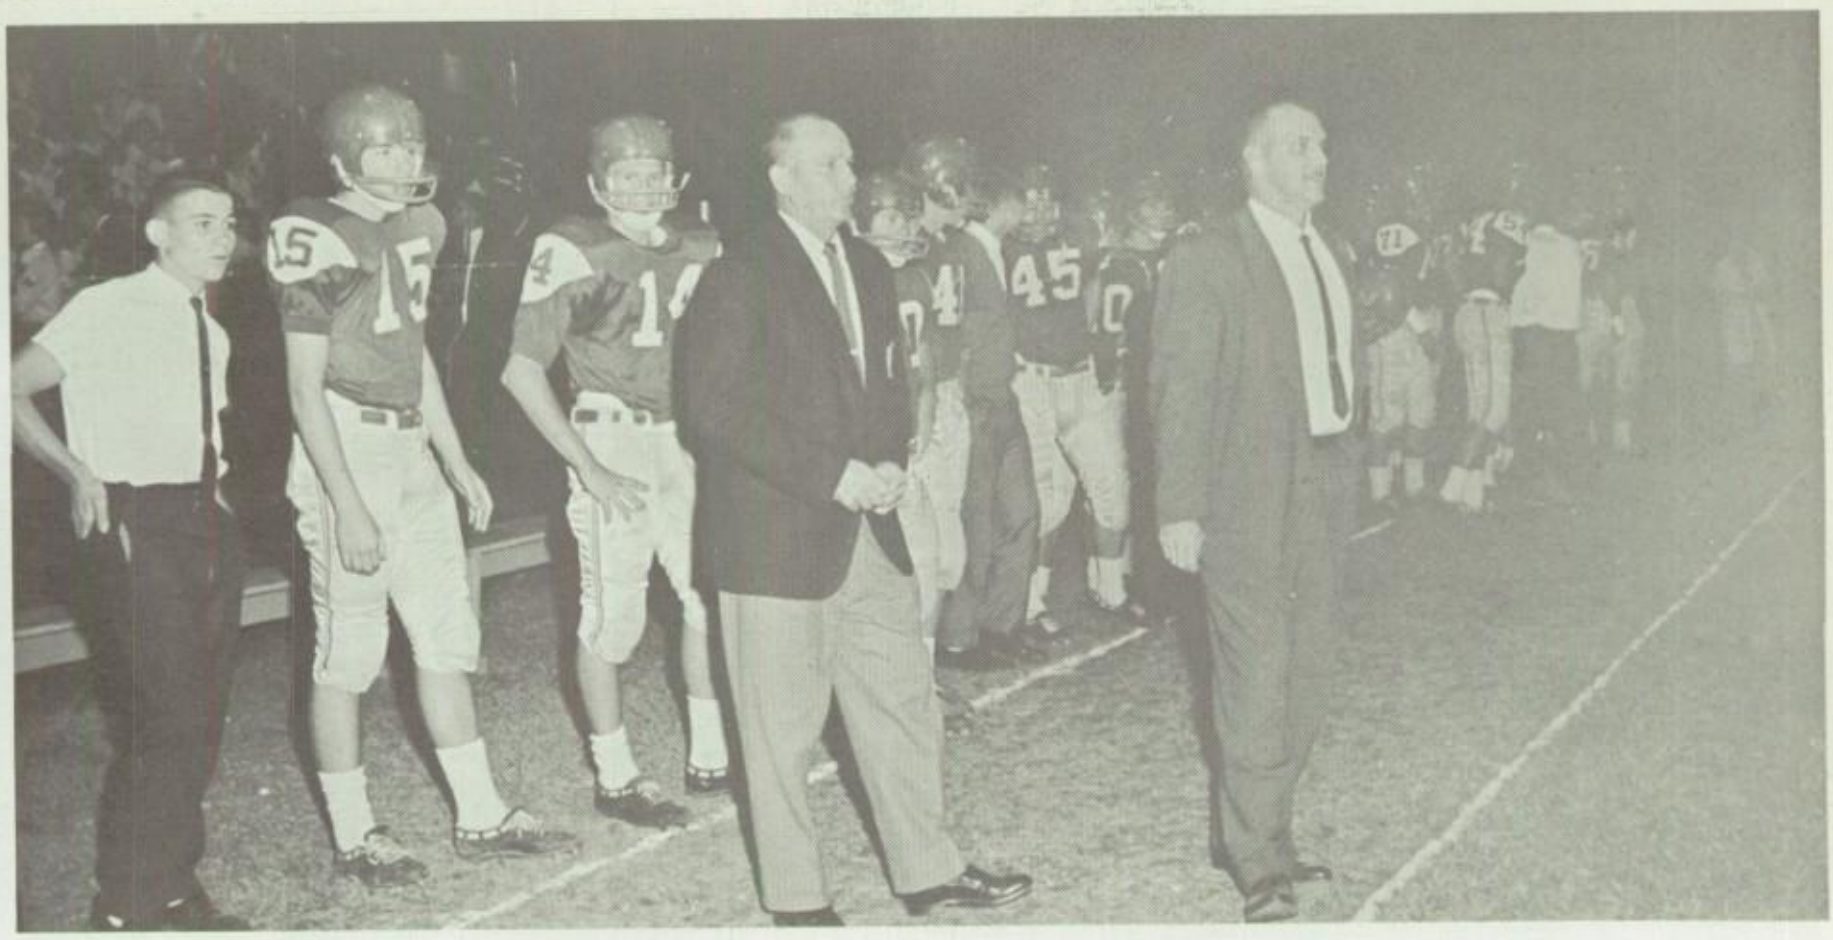
For once the photographer is able to catch Coach Stancil and Coach McGibbony breaking their weekly routine of pacing back and forth.



In Little Rock October 5 the Grizzlies ripped the stripes off the Central High Tigers to win the game 23-14. What brought about this surge of power no one knows, but through the quarterbacking of Butch Edwards and the tremendous offense and defense play of Tom Corbin and John Danner, the Grizzlies triumphed.

Grizzlies they're grrrreat—as proved in the close game with the Chicks in Blytheville on October 12. Rickey Hammond recovered a Chick fumble to open the way for a pass from Butch Edwards to Jerry Northup. The Grizzlies scored again in the last 35 seconds to win, 13-12.

An alert Grizzly team overran the Texarkana Razorbacks to take a 26-6 Big 9 win before a fired up homecoming crowd. The Bears were sparked by the running of Don Corbin and Robert Marley and the pass receiving of John Danner. On the defense, the Bruin line, led by Jack Cates and Joe Wehba, never allowed the Porkers much chance to score.

"You get away from me!" That is the sign Carl Rose gives a North Little Rock player as he romps down the field in the tight Grizzly-Wildcat game.

On October 26 in Grizzly stadium the Bears received their second defeat, 19-7, at the hands of a fired up Little Rock Hall team. The Grizzlies were not able to sustain a touchdown drive until the fourth quarter, when behind the running of Bebo Slates, the Bruins hit pay dirt with Carl Rose going over for the six points.

A week later the Hot Springs Trojans handed the Grizzlies their third defeat, 19-6, in Hot Springs. The Bears' lone score resulted from a pass to Alan Johnson by Butch Edwards. Despite their score, the Trojans were continually stopped by the defensive playing of Lowell Mask and Jack Cates.

The Grizzlies ended the season with a 7-6 win November 10 over the North Little Rock Wildcats, here in Fort Smith. Lowell Mask caught a pass from Butch Edwards to score the Bears' only touchdown. Tom Corbin kicked the extra point, which proved to be the winning factor. The Wildcats were kept from scoring again by a goal line stand led by Bill Presley, James Fields and J.B. Harrington.

Cubs grind out 3-3-1 season record

Under the coaching of Bob Lane, many of the 29 Northside Cubs, including three lettermen, proved to be promising players for the Grizzly varsity squad.

Starting their season with a 12-0 win over Fayetteville and a 13-0 victory over St. Anne's, the Cubs then fell to a hard-hitting Muskogee B team 14-6. A 21-6 win over Hartford was followed by two close losses, 28-26 to Poteau and 20-19 to Berryville. The Cubs closed out their season in a second game with Muskogee, ending in a tie, to make their season record 3-3-1.

Cub players Steve Carnes, Oran Elmore and David Johnston move over to help John McIntosh and Tom Edwards in stopping a Fayetteville player.

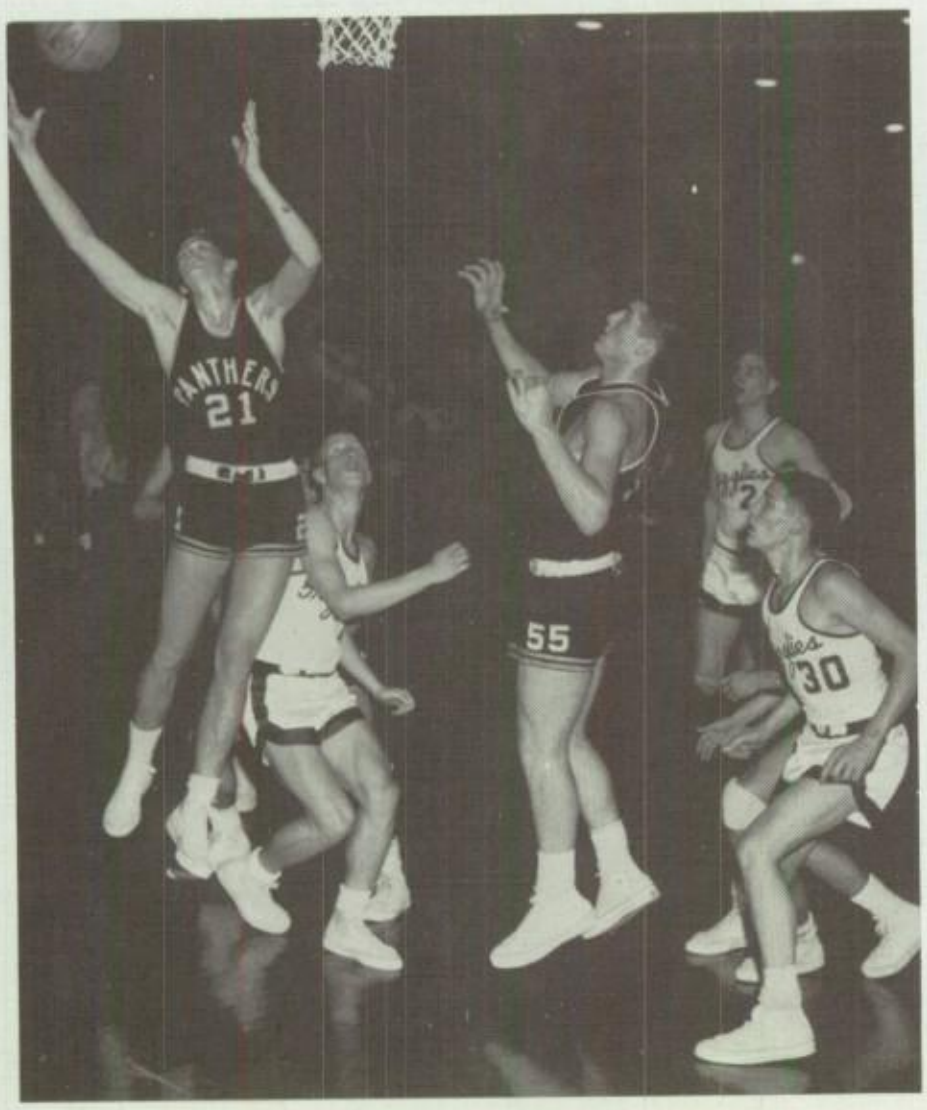
Slates, Jackson and King are set to spring for the ball on the rebound during the Grizzly win, 41-24, over Siloam Springs.



Northside, entering the basketball season with only two returning lettermen, had outstanding prospects for bettering the 13-11 record turned out last year. After beginning the season November 26, in the Harrison tournament, the Grizzlies also participated in the Arkansas Tech tourney, January 11-17. The regular season included 19 scheduled games and these two tournaments.

Heading the basketball staff at Northside, Gayle Kaundart is assisted by Coach Bob Lane and Coach Ronnie Bateman. With a total record of 117 wins and 50 losses, Coach Kaundart entered his eighth year as head basketball coach. Bob Lane has been with the staff for seven years as head of the Cubs, and Ronnie Bateman, after serving as coach at Ramsey Junior High, joined the staff this year.

As always in the Big 9, the Grizzly cagers encountered such outstanding teams as Little Rock Hall, who shared the league title with North Little Rock last year, Hot Springs with their entire starting squad returning, and the Zebras from Pine Bluff with such outstanding lettermen as Gordon Norwood and David Wyle. Other competitors for the Big 9 title are Central, Blytheville and El Dorado. The Grizzlies sparked on shooting and rebounding to finish with 19 wins and 7 losses.

Ken Sharp, transfer from Hall High, adds his talent to NHS team.

On the upsurge in Northside, track is gaining each year in both participation and attendance.

During the course of a regular season, NHS tracksters compete in a number of meets, including the Fort Smith invitational, the Tiger relays, the state AAA championship meet and the Arkansas relays, held annually at the University of Arkansas.

"Because it is so different from other varsity sports," said NHS track coach Charles Presley, "few people bother to recognize that track, being a sport of individual effort, is a better builder of character than most team sports and that running is one of the best body conditioners of all sports."

The opportunities for being successful in track are many, he added, because there are numerous events in which to compete, but the price is sometimes heavy because track is a year-round sport for most participants.

Extras include tennis, golf and intramurals

As an extra added attraction at Northside the sports season is spiced with golf, tennis and intramurals. Intramurals, including basketball and softball, are open to those boys not on school-sponsored teams and provide an opportunity for class and club competition.

Golf and tennis are relatively new here at Northside. Golf was introduced last year as a revival from years previous, and tennis has been brought back this year. Both of these teams are small and play mainly in campus and community tournaments.

Alpha Rho Tau benefits art students

Morgan installs Lyons, Phillips, Hart and Richards as new '62-'63 officers

Alpha Rho Tau, NHS art club, kicked off its year of activities with an initiation October 12, featuring ghosts, clowns and other assorted "funny faces." At this candlelight ceremony 30 members were inducted into the club to bring its total membership to 43.

Club projects were based on the purpose of the club, which is to stimulate an interest in cultural subjects among high school students. Plans included several senior "one man shows" to be exhibited in the cafeteria and participation in the all-school show at the Art Center.

One of the big events of the year for Alpha Rho Tau was the annual art auction. Students submitted some of their best work to be auctioned. The proceeds from this auction were used to help finance the annual trip in the spring.

Two "just for fun" activities of the club were a hayride November 16 and a festive Christmas party during the yuletide season. Other activities included a float in the homecoming parade and a candy sale.

Industrious workers on float are Phillips, Lairamore, Whittaker, Sebastian and Harris.

Half a dozen Alpha Rho Tau hopefuls show their "artistic ability" at the annual initiation party. Here are Sue Spillman, James Whittaker, Linda Rucker, Billy Wayne Harris, Fred Sebastain and Darry Savage.

Susan Karsten, Linda Boen, Peggy Moir, Linda Lyons, Becky Poe, Lynn Clark and Larry Merrywell rest after finishing their masks at the party. These creations turned out to be easiest part of the initiation ceremony.

Sally McConnell Paul Moody and Reedy Chandler (with masks) are being put through another phase of art club initiation by Charlotte Hart and Kathy Morgan, old members.

Happy faces are shown as the "unveiling" takes place. In back row are Mrs. Dean, Green, Banard, Dalton, Shoeppe, Stevens, Qualls; seated: Karsten Moir, Rockwood, Merrywell and Boen.

These Art Club members examine a number of the various water color paintings which were done by students in the art classes. Admirers include Peggy Moir, Dena Gann, Sandy Todd, Jimmy Meyers, Ellen Hachtmeyer, Linda Boen, Sue Spillman, Sally McConnell and Paul Moody.

Jim Whitaker checks the various art items that Elizabeth Judy and Linda Lyons have donated to Alpha Rho Tau's annual art auction.

Judy Lairamore, Curtis Harris and Irene Phillips demonstrate a phase of "art" that all art students must endure daily.

Alpha Rho Tau members look on as Robert Speer, a local artist, demonstrates some of the finer points of sculpture and exhibits some of his collection. Members here are Susan Smith, Ricky Stiles, Gene Hickman, Mr. Speer, Steve Reynolds, Dana Rounds and Mary Casey.

Athenians promote good citizenship

The Athenian Literary Society, one of the oldest clubs in NHS, was organized to promote high ideals, friendship and scholarship. Membership is open in May to sophomore and junior girls with a "C" average.

Athenians took Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to needy families. Candy sales and a paper drive were their money-making projects.

Secretary Linda Mahan, president Diana Ray, treasurer Sue Anderson, and vice-president, Carolyn Mendenhall cheerfully haul paper for their November paper drive.

"Stuffing" their homecoming float are Miss Hinkle, sponsor, Mahan, Mendenhall, Anderson, Kellam, McKaughan, Brogan, Gann, Schaap, Ray, Kincannon, Nelson, Mrs. Ray.

Officers Jerry Dukes, Ken Janzen and Stanley Haddock bring out the chess sets for an afternoon of play.

Top players Mike Ellig, Jerry Dukes, Bill Rotert and Bruce Stapleton battle in the final round of tournament play to determine board positions.

Chess Clubbers practice for tournament

Each year Northside students are showing an increasing interest in chess, one of the oldest and most popular concentration games. The Chess Club serves as an organized outlet for interested students. Tournaments place an emphasis on logical thinking in planning moves and strategy.

In January the Chess Club initiated a city-wide tournament for chess-minded students. Board members served as judges. Winners in the three-day bout were awarded trophies. Also included in plans for the year were invitational meets with area school clubs.

Chess Club tournament committeemen Fred Knod, Bob Turner, Eddie Whitchurch and Bob Meek watch as Bill Hall, Freddy Furr, Lee King, Tommy Christman, Steve Dye, Johnny Graves, Art Henning and Carolyn Hoffmann concentrate on winning the all-important game.

Columbians benefit school, community

Following the initiation of 40 new members, the Columbians launched their 1962-63 club year with the annual "Get Acquainted Week."

Activities during the year were varied. Mums were beribboned and distributed (for sale) at homecoming and the float was built with the aid of "Columbian Fathers."

Yearly projects included food baskets and clothing dispensed to needy families during the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons and the provision of books for needy students.

New and special projects for the year included an "Information Booth" for the enlightment of sophomores and newcomers the first two weeks of school. Work was started on the revision of a new clubs information book, and to carry out their purpose of better scholarship, the Columbians donated a set of Great Books to the school.

In contrast, on a lighter note, "singing valentines" were sung to sweethearts—and others—by "Canary-bird Columbians," an annual project that has grown more popular if not more melodious.

The Columbians brought clothes for a needy family. Sorters: Barbara Peevy, Carol Mendelsohn, Peggy Scholze and Eileen Adams.

Miss Poynor inspects one of the new Great Books Wilder presented to the school as a special project of the Columbians. Sheila Wilder, Joanne Lee, Mary Ewing, Kathy Morgan, Marsha Leavitt and Pat Funk had the pleasant task of carrying the books to their new home.

Homecoming spirit calls for mums

In order to make Northside an even more friendly school, Patti Rawlings and Penni Holt pin a name tag on Bill Hall for "Get Acquainted Week," an annual project sponsored by Columbians.

One of the steps in preparing the mums for corsages is the cutting of stems in the proper place. Patti Rawlings, Carolyn Toon, Elaina Crouse and Cindy Robinson demonstrate their technique.

The mums, shipped from Denver, must be made ready and packaged early on homecoming day. Back row: Robinson, Rawlings and Scholze. Front row: Crouse, Holt, Toon, and Mrs. Lemley and Peevy.

Top picture: Columbians busily engaged in work on the "stuffing" of the float are Carole Schulte, Donna Hall, Sandy Cress, Elaina Crouse, Penni Holt, Cindy Robinson, Sharon Johnson, Neva Cagle, Paula Lewis, Ellen Jackson, Patti Rawlings, Sheila Wilder, Joanne Mailer, Dottie Dunlap and Pat Funk. Left picture: The planning of "Get Aquainted Week" was a big job that took hours of planning. Many Columbians labored after hours to insure the making of enough name tags to distribute to every student. Workers here are Ellen Jackson, Gail Altman, Cindy Robinson, Carol Mendelsohn, Penni Holt and Susan Head.

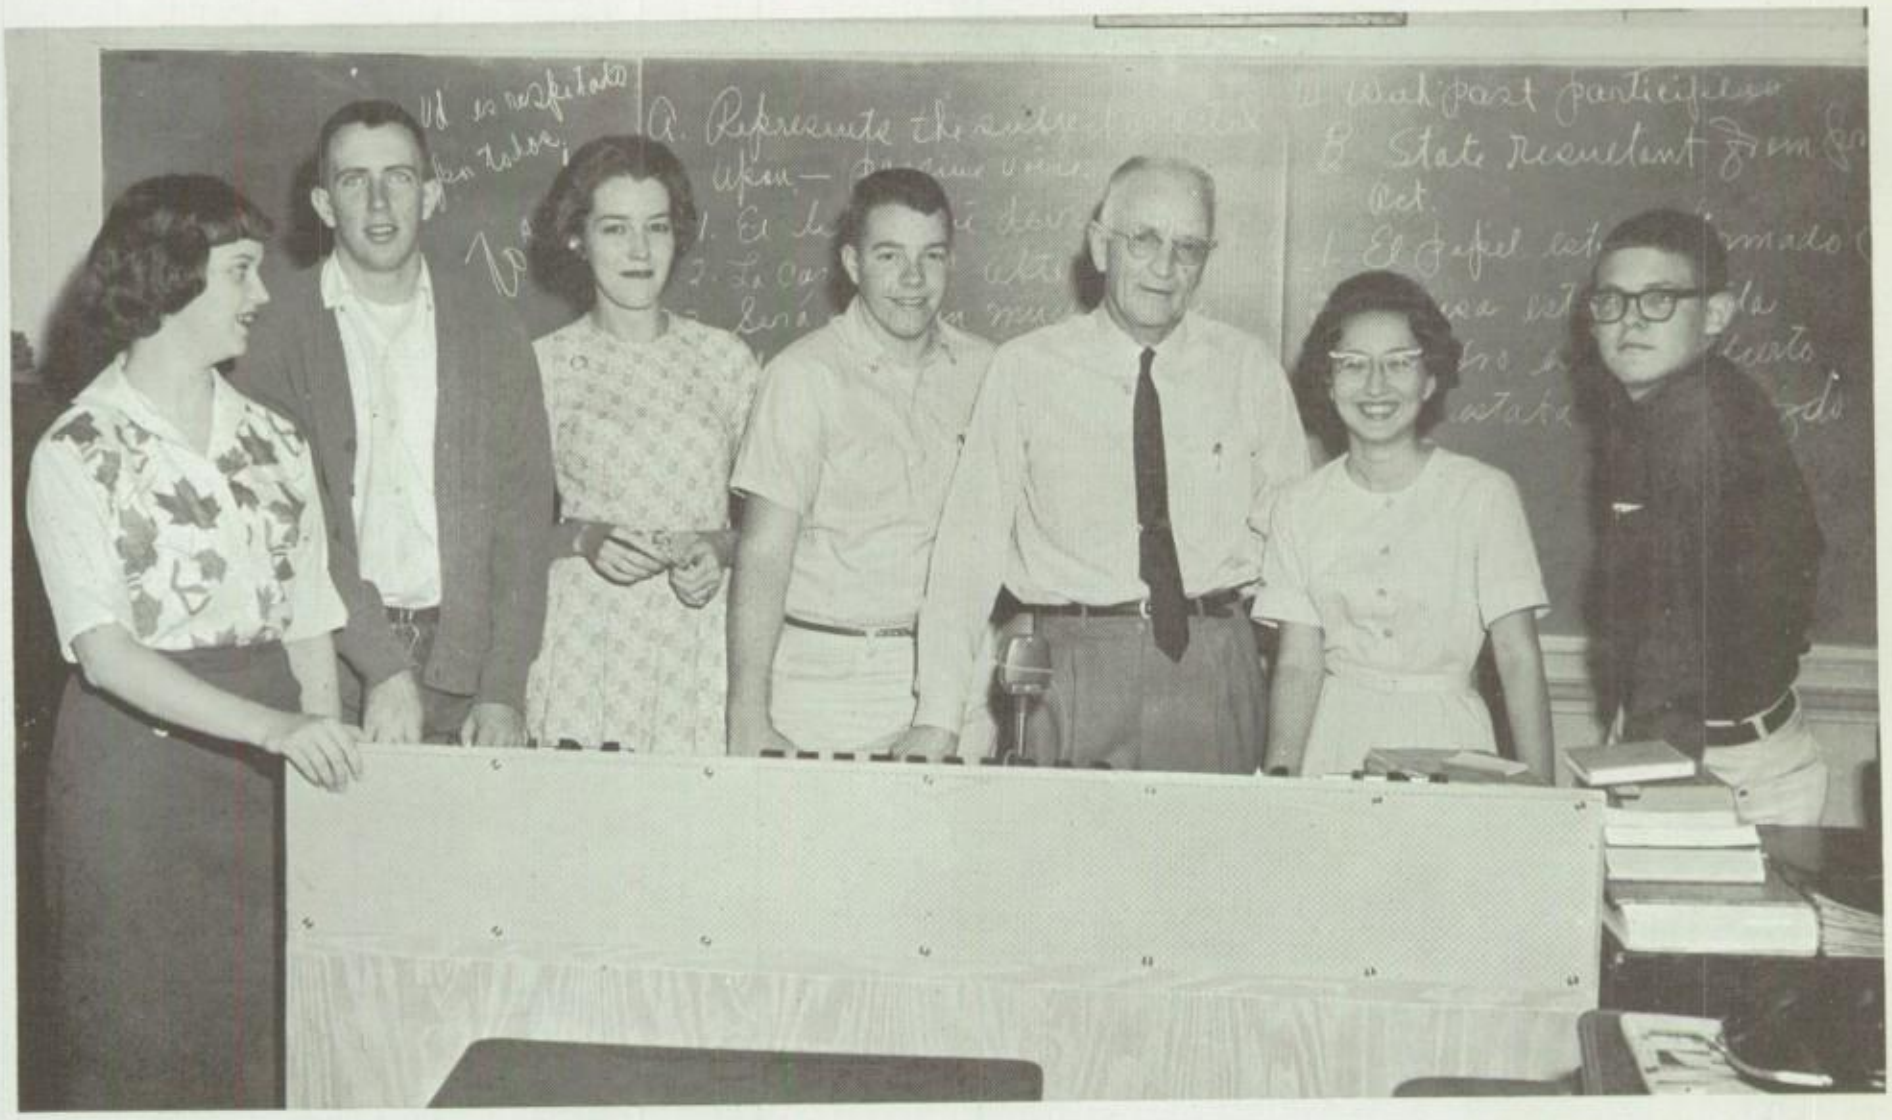
This unique float, built around a jeep, presented the effect of a drum rolling down the street, being beaten by an invisible force. Ellen Jackson managed to beat the real drum that provided the booming sound heard outside. Carol Mendelsohn drove the jeep, "assisted" by Elaina Crouse and Penni Holt.

As an annual project, the Columbians compose "singing valentines." Poets busy here are Joyce Harris, Jeanne Reddick, Fran Stuettgen, George Ann Miller, Marie Huey, Kaye Buell, Elaine Gage, Lollie McDonald, Linda Weaver, and Carolyn Toon.

Becky Wikstrom, treasurer, collects dues from Joanne Mailer, Eileen Adams, Carolyn Hoffmann, Kay King, Sherry Holloway, Annie Heinold, Ellen Jackson, Bettye Moulton, Carole Schulte, Dee Whitcomb, Marsha Riddle, and Harriett Hubbard.

Printing 2,200 name tags was quite an ambitious undertaking for these Columbians: Donna Hall, Dottie Dunlap, Mary Bennett, Janee Parris, Judy Robinson, Sandy Cress, Marcia Nincehelser, Mary Kay Vann, Linda Ross, Vickey Manchaca, Donna Standiford and Brenda Graves.

Don Quijote Club adds touch of Mexico



Don Quijote Club–Suzy Stosberg, Paul Latture, Gloria Savage, Ricky Martin, Mr. Keefe, sponsor, Constance Baird, Bobby Wilder.

Suzy Stosberg, Gloria Savage, Ricky Martin, Mr. Keefe and Norman Shipley enjoy the complete Mexican menu at the club's annual dinner.

The only honor society in the NHS language department is the Don Quijote chapter of the year students who have maintained at least a "B" average in their first year of study.

Special activities of the Don Quijote group are held with the Pan American club. These include not only social functions but meetings featuring guest speakers. This year the two clubs held their annual Mexican dinner in December, featuring a complete Mexican menu and a pinata for entertainment.

Officers for this year included Suzy Stosberg, president; Constance Baird, vice-president; and Flo Rainwater, secretary-treasurer. Sponsor was W. W. Keefe.

Die Deutsche Gesellschaft 'goes German'

"The purpose of any language club is to give the student some idea of how the people live and what their more colorful customs are as well as to provide an opportunity to use the language in conversation," says Mrs. John Wilkinson, sponsor, popularly known as "Frau."

Membership is open to all German students, with all German foreign exchange students invited to wear the Die Deutsche Gesellschaft club pin.

The first social event of the season was the traditional Christmas party, highlighted this year by a polka contest and plenty of German chocolate cake and root beer. A juke box provided music for those who wished to dance. The second social event of the year, an annual outing to which members may invite guests, is held in May.

"N" Club exclusive for N H S lettermen

Membership in the "N" Club is open only to Northside boys who letter in at least one sport—football, basketball or track.

"The chief aim of the organization is to recognize boys who are outstanding in athletics and to help promote better sportsmanship, individually as well as school-wide." said Coach Bill Stancil.

During the Easter season, "N" Club members don caps with bunny ears and challenge the Pep Squad to see which group can sell the most Easter lilies for the Crippled Children's Fund.

Members of the club annually honor some citizen of Fort Smith who has contributed time and effort to the NHS athletic program by making him an honorary member of the "N" Club. To climax a year of hard work, the boys relax at an overnight camping trip at Lake Tenkiller early in May.

This was a letter day for these Northside Grizzlies. Mr. Farnsworth awards a gold football to Robert Marley, Don Corbin, Fay Boozman. Coach Stancil and Tom Corbin look on. Marley was awarded a football because he also lettered in track. Corbin, Boozman and Corbin were awarded second-year letter sweaters.

These lettermen are busy admiring their new letter jackets and sweaters after receiving them early in January. John Hawkins, Alan Johnson, Jim McKinley, Jack Cates, Bill Bateman, J. B. Harrington, John Buchanan, Jerry Northup and Joe Wehba help each other try them on.

The Fort Smith chapter of National Future Teachers of America, the Mary K. Settle chapter, has grown from a membership of 15 in 1948 to 44 in 1963.

"There is a great need for qualified teachers in all phases of education," said Miss Irene Barnwell, sponsor," and FTA gives the student the opportunity to examine his interests and abilities to see if this is the profession he wishes to enter."

FTA is both a service organization and a professional club, focusing attention on programs that will help guide the student toward his profession. One of the most publicized activities is Teacher Appreciation Day, for which FTA works in co-operation with the student council by supplying teachers. This project gives club members actual experience by observing an average teaching schedule.

Money - making projects included homemade candy sales for which all members contributed or paid a fine.

As many departments in NHS have clubs to supplement their classroom activities, Diversified Occupations offers the Future Tradesmen of Arkansas. Future Tradesmen, a vocational club, is open only to boys enrolled in DO.

Officers for the '62-'63 school year are Bob Doss, president, Larry Reed, secretary, and Bill Hallsted, treasurer. The instructor of DO and sponsor of Future Tradesmen is Ralph Smith.

During the Christmas season when most students are wondering where the money for presents is coming from, these students are out working for theirs. For a week they are excused from school to work. As April rolls around, so does the income tax. Future Tradesmen take time out to learn how to fill out these forms easily and quickly. In the spring, members honor their employers with an employer—employee banquet.

The main objective of Future Tradesmen is to help the members be better prepared to take their places in the business world.

Attendance records are important in Hi-Y. Durden, Chafin, Hobbs, Wright, Edwards, White and Yantis are members in good standing.

Hi - Y stresses high standards

The Hi-Y, a service organization open to all NHS boys, was organized to create, maintain and extend high standards of Christian character.

One of their first activities was a hayride, and then in December the election of the Hi-Y sweetheart, Charlotte Hart. For Christmas the boys held a door decoration contest for the homerooms, offering a $9 prize to the winner. In January they had a banquet, followed by a dance which was open to the student body. The annual Hi-Y slave auction was held in March.

Members of the Hi-Y had the honor of driving the homecoming royalty in the parade, in which they also had a float.

Hi-Y's main project of the year is the Garvin Grizzly awards held in May. The purpose of this is to honor students who are outstanding in various fields, clubs with outstanding projects, and a teacher whom the students think is outstanding and deserving.

The traditional membership pins and cards for the American Red Cross are being sorted for distribution during the membership drive by NHS chapter members John Karber, Susan Peak, Kingsley Bost, Mary Leigh Easton, Carol Nincehelser, John Karrant, Jimmy Ward and Jo Harris.

Red Cross undertakes Service Projects

The High School Red Cross had an active year of projects and activities in accord with their goal of helping humanitarian organizations and in promoting international good will. One of these projects was the annual membership drive which netted the NHS chapter $88 for the Red Cross.

This organization sponsored the popular "Simple Set," a variety show set against the background of a small Kansas town during the depression. The show, directed by Bob Kuykendall and Randy Bell, used no props except a few chairs and a platform. It was considered a combination of acted literature and music set to a general theme with emphasis given to the actors' voices and abilities.

Officers for this year include Eddie Gillespie, president; Bob Kuykendall, vice-president; Lynda Stubblefield, secretary-treasurer.

Board members included Donna Wakefield, senior; Jim Pryor, junior; and Blake Harper, sophomore. Marsha Riddle is entertainment chairman; John Karrant, water safety chairman; Martha Bedwell, emergency drill chairman; Jimmy Ward, motor chairman.

Sponsors are Miss Nancy Brooks and Mrs. Truman Boatright.

Red Cross membership drive money is counted by Jim Ward, John Karrant, Blake Harper, Annie Heinold, and Bruce Roberson.

With the selection of 16 new members, the NHS Key Club began another year of fruitful service to the school and community. New members for the '62-'63 school year were named by a faculty committee which chose four seniors, eight juniors and four sophomores on the basis of citizenship, scholastic achievement and leadership ability. Total membership for any year is restricted to 32.

Among routine projects of the Key Club are the raising and lowering of the flag on the front campus each day and decorating the goal posts for all Grizzly home football games.

More colorful activities included the club president-sponsor banquet in November, a "get out and vote" campaign during the state elections in November urging citizens of Fort Smith to exercise their vote, circulation of the student directories in December, the Key Club-faculty basketball game in February, a mother and father banquet in March and a sweetheart banquet in the spring honoring the 1963 sweetheart.

The club, an international organization for high school boys, is sponsored by the Kiwanis International and strives to build incentive, good will and fellowship among its members.

Le Cercle Francais: s'amusant bien

From a Mardi Gras party to making French ice cream for Play Day, members of Le Cercle Francais have an active year. At Christmastime carolers go through the halls carrying lighted candles and singing carols in French.

As a part of the induction ceremony, initiates are required to speak only French, except in the classroom, for one full day, climaxed in the evening by a scavenger hunt, also during which they speak French only.

To celebrate Mardi Gras, members hold a masquerade party. At the beginning of the party a king and queen are chosen by cutting a cake with a bean inside. The one to find the bean chooses a partner and the others of the group honor them with a skit.

"Fun for all" might seem to be the motto of the French club, but the main purpose is to provide opportunities for activities that cannot be carried on in the classroom.

French club initiates were welcomed to the induction by these members and alumni: Edwards, Wortz, Miss Randall, Lee, Williams, Kilfoille, Bridges, Banard, England and Bozeman.

French club members and French students combine forces in the annual Christmas carol singing. Top row: Stephens, Porter, Ayers, Davis, Roberson, Simpson, Schaap, McCraney, Morgan, Peckenpaugh, K. They always make French ice cream to sell at their booth on Play Day—but the problem is to see that the members don't eat it first! Back row: Griffin, Cox, Stubblefield, Donoho, Williams, Pendelton, Pearce, Albright. Middle row: Howell, Bates, Hahn, Koenig, Artzt, Werner, Fox, Sanders. Front row: Phillips, Miller, Bray, Patty, Land, Walls, Vaughn, Hawkins, Cannon, Campbell, Sharp.

Le Cercle Francais executive board meeting: Phillips, Wortz, Edwards, Banard, Hawkins, Schaap, Werner, Jackson, Mendelsohn, Stevinson, Rawlings, McCraney, Savage, Campbell.

Officers and sponsor piloting the club this year are Elaine England, Jean Ann Bridges, Janie Wortz, Miss Randall, Jim Pryor, Caroline Phillips.

The celebration of Mardi Gras affords usually sedate members of the French Club (Kathy Cox, Neva Jane Cagle, Dee Whitcomb, Paula Lewis, Cheryl McCleary, Sanna Olson and George Mayer) another opportunity to kick up their heels a bit and get away with it!

The customary way for Le Cercle to begin the year is to hold open house on New Year's Day. Among those receiving a cup of tea from Gloria Savage are Sheila Wilder, Sherrill Holloway, Gail Preston, Danny Hendrix, Doris Kraus, Mary Oldham, Carol Ed Allen and Jim Pryor.

Frolics in French: friends, food, fun

Some initiates who took part in the French Club initiation by riding a bicycle down Garrison Avenue during the homecoming parade were Morgan, Williams, Bates, Fant, Cannon and Mayer.

Varied activities

The Library Club, composed of student library assistants kept busy this year with a number of activities ranging from candy sales to conventions. Members sold popular paper-bound books, worked at the concession stand for one of the football games and attended district library club meets. The biggest event of the year was the district meeting at NHS in March. Also the club sponsored a closed circuit TV program to English classes on "How to Prepare a Term Paper."

Membership in the Library Club is open only to student library assistants and former student assistants. The aim of the club is to promote more pupil interest and participation in library work and to create better library service.

Library officers for '63 are Gloria Savage, president; Kay McCullough, vice-president; Gayla Miller, secretary-treasurer; and Shirley Paxson, reporter. Sponsors for this year are Miss Lavonne Blackman and Mrs. Ruth Robinson.

Famous and infamous characters in books were portrayed at the Library Club initiation. Left: Frank Meek, Lind Strasburg, Gloria Savage, Norma Kinsey. Middle: Tom Reid, Jean Burke, Kay McCullough, Bennie Thayer. Right: Willy Chicknski, Marcia Libby, Charles Beavers, Betty Kinsey.

Members at work on the processing of new books are Thayer, Miss Hall, Martin, Anderson, McCullough, Libby, Savage, Miss Blackman, Neugent, Loux, Jones, Sharpe, Reid, Yancey and Burke.

Librarians proved that "all work and no play" did not apply to them as they held a gala Christmas party. Student librarians here include, top row, Sanders, Shoeppe, Abshere, Henry, Yancey, Sparks, Williams, Wagely, Baker, Sullivan, Cobb, Loux, Ellig; middle row, Chickinski, Strasburg, Wall, Glosson; bottom row, Williams, Taylor, Milstead, Baldwin, Griffin, Butcher, Pilgrim, Kinsey, Hubbard, Ferrarro, Harris, Sharpe.

Mu Alpha Theta stresses mathematics

Mu Alpha Theta sponsors Mrs. Sidler and Mrs. Van Riper meet with officers Donna Hall, Bill Vick and Judy Sullivan to discuss plans for the meeting at the University of Oklahoma.

Mu Alpha Theta, the honor society for math students, was organized to give members the opportunity to learn more about mathematics than just that covered in the classroom. Requirements for membership include (1) four credits in high school math with at least a "B" average, (2) an over-all scholarship average of "B" and (3) teacher approval.

At bi-weekly meetings members give talks on topics such as "Mathematical Induction," "Infinity" and "Symbolic Logic." In December the club went to the University of Oklahoma for a convention. While there, they heard lectures and were shown electronic computers and nuclear reactors at work.

In the spring, Mu Alpha Theta sponsors the National High School Mathematics Contest, open to all NHS math students. The top three scores are added to produce a total score for school competition throughout Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Two traditional candlelighting ceremonies were held this year by National Honor Society. At these inductions, one held each semester, the four basic principles of the Society were discussed by a panel of the members—scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Following the ceremonies, a reception honoring new members and their parents was held—a "fancy dress" occasion amid a gala setting of flowers, candles, crystal and silver.

Requirements for membership in the National Honor Society include Leadership, service and character, as well as high scholarship, the basic requirement. Sophomores must have a 3.75 grade average and juniors and seniors a 3.50 grade average.

Speakers for the Society's first semester initiation included Morgan, Grifford, Leavitt, Weaver, Bell, Floyd and Altman.

Pan American studies Spanish culture

Part of the fun of studying a foreign language in NHS is learning more about that country and its customs. The Spanish department carries out this idea through the Pan American Club.

Membership is open to all students in the Spanish classes, past and present. Pan American is a social club with the main objective of furthering classroom activities by showing students some of the more colorful customs of the Spanish-speaking countries.

The main social event of the year was a Mexican dinner held in December, guests played games with a Latin influence and broke the traditional pinata, a papier-mache figure full of "dulcies."

Pan American officers for this year were Elizabeth Dixon, president; Ricky Martin, vice-president; and Wilma Yancey, secretary-treasurer W. W. Keefe was sponsor.

Partners in Christ aim for high ideals

With a membership of 87, Partners in Christ had a full schedule of service projects and activities.

Among the activities were a get-acquainted party held in September and a successful party sale on Garrison Avenue held in October. Plans included a float in the homecoming parade and a Christmas party. Their gift to the school was to be announced at a later date.

The service project for this year was the sponsoring of transportation to Joseph M. Hill School for a retarded child during January.

Partners in Christ organized in NHS six years ago with a membership of seven. Its sole purpose is to promote and create a Christian fellowship among students in NHS.

"Y-e-a-a-a ! Grizzlies!" shouted 336 members of the NHS Pep Squad throughout the '62-'63 sport season. Seven buses loaded with 260 members went to Little Rock to cheer the Bears on to victory over Central High's Tigers.

In November the Pep Squad held a banquet honoring cheerleaders, pep leaders, officers and their sponsors, Miss Marjorie Beall, Mrs. Steve Crosland and J. W. Colvard.

The Pep Squad sponsors eight cheerleaders for cheerleading school during the summer and purchases sweaters for cheerleaders.

Quill and Scroll honors journalists

Quill and Scroll, an international honor society, is for high school journalists doing exceptional work. In Northside that means on one of the three publications, BRUIN, Litsmith or Grizzly. Initiates must rank in the upper one-third of their class scholastically and be either a junior or senior.

The society sponsored a city-wide banquet as part of their fall initiation. Journalists from four local schools heard J. B. Covington, head of the department of journalism at the University of Arkansas, speak on "Has the Journalism Bug Bitten You?"

On the light side of the Northside initiation, new members must write 200 lines of "poetry" praising Quill and Scroll members. Pins and charms are available to initiates.

Barbara Peevy is president, Mary Beckman Beasley is vice-president and Miss Hazel Presson, sponsor.

Quill and Scroll members at the banquet included John Burrow, Dede Bethell, Penni Holt, Carol Mendelsohn, Carolyn Hoffmann, Marsha Leavitt, Sue Sonderegger, J. B. Covington, speaker, Barbara Peevy, Nancy Bauer, Pat Funk, Peggy Scholze, Shirley Lovette, Jerry Dukes, Kathy Morgan.

Science Club is stimulus for active minds

"As members of the Science Club, we strive to increase our knowledge, perfect our skills and understand the importance of science in our daily lives," says Butch Page, president.

Membership is open to all NHS students whether they are enrolled in science classes or not provided that they desire to participate actively.

Science Club members heard such speakers as NHS science instructors, who spoke on technical subjects, and local pharmacists, technicians and doctors who discussed the areas in which they work.

Members of the club entering the annual city-wide science fair displayed and discussed their experiments at meetings.

A demonstration of the gyroscope's procession, including principles, uses and practical application, was given by Mr. Blair at one of the regular meetings of the Science Club. Members participating in the program are Bill Vick, Burton Gregg, Carolyn James, Darlene Shelby, Bruce Carter, Mr. Blair, Richard Kassat, Larry Renshaw and Ken Janzen. Various NHS teachers appeared on club programs.

Board members Leavitt, Schaap, Howard, Britton, D. Brown, Robertson, Bray, Owens, L. Brown, Johnson and Dobbs spend hours going over Thespian qualifications in board meetings.

Sock and Buskin members have had a full year, beginning as early as last August, when the board members made plans for a number of projects, including ushering at the Broadway plays to be presented in Fort Smith.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" was cast the first week of school and presented in mid-October. The week following, casting and rehearsals started for the senior play, "Teahouse of the August Moon." During rehearsals for "Teahouse," try-outs started on the musical, "South Pacific," produced in February. In March Sock and Buskin members took a troup to the state drama festival in Conway. Between the major productions, S and B ushered at the Broadway plays, held two National Thespian initiations, and helped with Little Theatre productions.

The aim of Sock and Buskin, as of the National Thespians, the national drama honor society, is to promote good theatre in the school and community through outstanding productions and projects in the field of dramatics.

Lollie McDonald and Ray Schaap hunt through old posters in an attempt to find new ideas for an all-important part of any play.

"Only seven more to go!" But that many more ideas come hard for Schaap and Heinold, who have spent all day on 29.

Somewhat hampered by more than two pounds of make-up, Larry Renshaw gives instructions to David Smith in the light booth on how to control the lights for the next scene while Bill DuBois handles the curtain and Marcia Libby takes care of props and sounds backstage.

Y-Teens program

From pushing carts in the hospitals on Saturdays to attending city, state and mid-South conferences, Y-Teens have an active and fun-filled year. Y-Teens, an affiliate of the YWCA, is a Christian service organization with many service projects and social activities throughout the year.

Serving fruit juices and supplying ice water is a weekly job for Y-Teens at local hospitals. To keep Christmas, the girls held a world fellowship buffet supper, using Germany as a theme this year. German food was served amidst colorful German decorations. After supper the girls donned coats and went caroling.

In the spring the city Y-Teen conference was held at the local YWCA for NHS, Darby and Ramsey clubs. The state conference held in March at El Dorado was attended by delegates from the Fort Smith schools. Two NHS delegates attended the Gulfport, Mississippi, mid-South convention last June.

Y-Teen officers for this year are Betty Compton, president; Jo Claire Britt, vice-president; and Clay Fennelly, secretary-treasurer. Sponsor is Mrs. Fannie B. Tirey.

provide more student participation

Susan Steele, recorder for the student council, receives some help filling the scrapbook from some of the other representatives of the council: Libby Thuerk, Jo Harris, Ann Albright, Bill Presley, Karen Hunt, Butch Edwards, Linda Ross.

The student council, organized to provide a definite means for student participation in school advancement, carries on a number of activities and projects throughout the year. Activities in government include the election of student body officers for the first and second semesters.

During football season, members sell booster tags, take charge of the victory bell at games, and sponsor homecoming activities beginning with the snake dance on Garrison Avenue and ending with the homecoming dance in the cafeteria after the game.

With the aid of the Future Teachers, the council sponsors Teacher Appreciation Day at the end of the first quarter. A strictly social activity is Twirp Week, which is brought to a close with a Sadie Hawkins dance. The last big activity of the year is Play Day, when dignified seniors, silly sophomores and even some of the teachers take an afternoon from the serious side of school to play.

Julie Simard, center, served as the speaker of the house for the first semester. Other members holding offices for the year are Cissy Crampton, Ron Dee Wright, Johnny Karrant and Mike Ferrell.

In an attempt to establish more representation of the student body, a house of representatives was organized this year—after four years of consideration in the student council. The house consists of 79 members and 69 alternates chosen by their respective home rooms. One representative is chosen for every class with less than 50 people. Every class with more than 50 people has two.

Each semester new members are elected with the exception of senior members, who serve a full year.

Meeting once a week, the house has no treasury and has only the power to make suggestions to the student council. Among the many suggestions to come from the house, were the improvement of parking around the campus, the addition of a flag pole in the stadium and a suggested dare for TWIRP week.

Officers, who served a full year, were Mike Ferrell, speaker pro tem; Cissy Crampton, secretary; Sandy Ladage, sentinel; and John Karrant, sentinel. Julie Simard was first semester speaker and Barbara Angeletti was second semester speaker. George McAlister was sponsor.

Bottom row: Stevens, Bauer, Owens, Measeles, Gingrich, Hickman, Alverson, pause on the stadium steps before attending on early Tuesday morning meeting.

During the week before Christmas, members of the House of Representatives helped the student council with their successful post office. Members Elaine England and Jane Hahn busily sort cards.

Various committees were formed to give more attention to important projects and ideas. This committee is composed of Terry Kirkpatrick, Pam Cravens, Larry Stone and John Hawkins.

Council members sacking announcements are Glenda Nelson and Mary Jane Porter, seated. Richard Phegley, Becky Wikstrom, Kaye King, Don Law, Bascom Freeman, Eileen Adams and Linda Stone.

From productions to commencement seniors keep busy

Producing a play, selecting the design for graduation announcements and electing a board of governors are only a few activities of this year's senior council. Each spring 40 members and four alternates are elected to serve as members of the council for their senior year.

Two of the council's most successful undertakings were the senior play, "Teahouse of the August Moon," at the end of November and the Broadway production, "South Pacific," in February.

Some other activities of the year were the homecoming float and the operation of the concession stand for some of the football games. During December the council sponsored the Who's Who box and then later the elections.

For the first time a board of governors, which is made up of the three executive officers and four members of the council. The purpose of the board is to screen some of the topics to be discussed so that the council can cover more business in each meeting.

Tickets and more tickets for the senior play, "Teahouse of the August Moon," staged in November, are checked in and out by these council members--left to right: Chandler, Stocker, Buell, Phegley, Floyd, White, Stone, Corbin, Cress, Rogers, Howard and Green.

Publicity for this year's musical, "South Pacific," handled through the senior council, got into full swing as members sorted and passed out posters that were placed throughout the city. Left to right: Lollie McDonald, Mary Jane Porter, Ruffin Snow, Janie Shane, Don Law, Glenda Nelson, Ellen Jackson, Bascom Freeman, Elaine Gage, Becky Wikstrom, Kay King and Eileen Adams.

Junior Council sees democracy in action

Junior class officers for the year '62-'63 include Sharon Johnson, David Staggs, J. B. Harrington, president, and Judy Robinson.

"We're on top, hear us roar. We're the class of '64!" And roar they did, right past everyone to win first place with their "Skunk 'em, Grizzlies!" homecoming float.

One of the most popular ways to make money —as always— was the Junior Variety Show held in April, one of the traditions of NHS. Other money-raising projects were the running of concession stands at Grizzly and junior high football games. Council members also sold red and white Grizzly pinwheels.

"Council work is important in giving the student the opportunity to learn parliamentary procedure and seeing democracy in action," according to Larry Loux, sponsor. "Of course, raising money is important because any surplus left after expenses are paid is carried over to the senior class for a class gift."

The main event for junior council was the Junior Variety Show. Directors were David Staggs and Linda Brown.

Making posters for the Junior Variety Show, which was produced in April, appears to be an easy job for these junior council members. "Artists" include Fay Boozman, John Hawkins, Linda Loughridge, Ginger Shepherd, Judy Robinson, Carol Karsten, Steve Page, Paul Latture and Nancy Cain.

Junior Council–Back row: Page, Brown, Standiford, P. Strang, Holloway, Johnston, Mr. Loux. Second row: Staggs, Rainwater, Robinson, ReMine, Wilkerson, McCleary, C. Strang, Hawkins, Cain, Turner, Howell, Shepherd, Loughridge. Third row: Karsten, Boozman, Latture, Whitcomb, Frazier, Srygley. Front row: Northup, Nye, Bowman. Facing the council is president J. B. Harrington.

Float workers include volunteers, Sherry Holloway, a helper, Sharon Johnson, Kay Williams, Fred Bowman, Pat Strang.

The Variety Show committee consisted of eight. Standing: Johnston, Rainwater, Karsten, Brown, Staggs. Seated: Robinson, Holloway, Harrington.

Juniors enjoy homecoming festivities

Sophomore Council turns to fund raising

"Munching" sophomores linger over the last box of candy sold at the candy sale. Salesmen include Hunt, Simpson, Minyard, Karrant, Yantis, Taylor.

The largest sophomore class in Fort Smith history has created an unusual situation on the NHS campus. This year to find more classroom space it was necessary to schedule 524 sophomores in the Peabody annex, affectionately known as Outer Mongolia. For another "first," a co-sponsor, Miss Ann Brady, English teacher, has been selected to take care of the sophs at Northside while Mrs. John Holiman handles soph business affairs at the Peabody annex.

"In addition to representing the sophomore class, the council utilizes parliamentary procedure and leadership ability. It is an honor as well as a responsibility to serve as a member," Mrs. Holiman said.

One of the annual activities of the council is the homecoming float, which this year won third place. To raise money, sophomores learned the fundamental points of good salesmanship and peddled candy at Christmas time and NHS stationery in the fall. Council members also sold plastic yearbook covers for the BRUIN in May.

Sophomore council officers for this year are Mike Minyard, president, and Karolyn Parker, vice-president.

Sophomores acquired a knowledge of salesmanship from selling school stationery. This group includes Marilyn Noel, Cece Hendricks, Judy Williams, Larry Stone, John McIntosh, Sandy Morgan, Ann Scott Gray, Bob Fitzgerald, Beverly Hawkins, Emily Beckman, Dwain Cromwell, Norma Sims.

The sophomore council faced a year of fund-raising activities. One means for collecting money was the selling of BRUIN covers as demonstrated by John Cook, Karolyn Parker, Theda Baker, Blake Harper, Mike Minyard, Connie Cain, Glenn Ann Blakemore and Bonnie Taylor.

Homecoming float new experience for sophomores

Sellers surprise sophs

Buy! Buy! Buy! Boyd Cox was rushed, just as every new sophomore was rushed, by the "sellers." Nancy Cain, Janie Shane and Jo Harris press their sales for pinwheels, booster club memberships and booster tags.

Roger Sparkman, Larry Stone and Bill Laytin hold a "Thanks, Grizzlies" sign. They are among the many who took part in "Thanks, Grizzlies Week."

Sophomores have chance to vote

At one point in any game there's a quiet moment. Cal Pearce, mascot, repeats the pledge with Mary Bennett and Connie Denton.

Cupcakes, posters and rallies were among various campaign devices employed by Steve Plunkett, Charles Hartsfield and Randy Bell.

As those at night rehearsals will recall, the moonlit background of Northside can become a picturesque setting.

Newcomers part of big NHS change

When the Grizzly is delivered, one can see by a side glance in the boys gym that all work stops and reading the paper starts.

The responsibility of polishing the school trophies is taken over this year by the student council. Members J. Harris, M. Plunkett, B. Kincannon and A. Albright take time out from their studies to participate in the project.

MARY LOU SELGADO DARLENE VANDIVER

Sport managers White, Adams, Ladage, Singleton, Bender, Jacobsen and Bateman decide to take a breather from work and the coaches.

Musicmakers for the morning devotionals Hawk and Dunlap playfully demonstrate their ability to follow organists Funk, Basham, Measeles, Finney and Adams.

This was your year, and here is your book

Suzi Parr and Anne Dobbs, two of the three advertising managers of the BRUIN, are trying to meet the first deadline.

. . . but to us who have worked on it and to you who have a part in it, this BRUIN is more than pages bound in a cover—for it contains reminders of many unforgettable days, from special occasions to small moments, from all the work we did to all the work we didn't do. All go together to make this year what it is, what it was, and what it always will be.

The sophomores are left with a feeling of relief, for they now know that if they can make it through one year of fear, frustration and the hardest thing—just being a sophomore—they can make it through anything, even two more years of new experiences.

The juniors feel the most secure, for they have had someone to look up to and yet someone to look up to them. And now the uppermost thought in a junior's mind is NEXT year I'll be a senior.

The seniors are filled with a little sadness, for their high school years are fast becoming memories. But they are also the proudest, for each senior truly believes that "A better class there'll never be—we're the class of '63!"

This was a year when new ideas became realities and old methods became "has-beens."

At deadline time Editor Morgan says the BRUIN office is a busy place.

A year when bigger plans brought forth a more all-round effort from the students. This book is now one of those efforts made for you, a student body of the "muchest with the mostest!"
